HARVARD CLUB BAR CLOSED

The bars at the Harvard Club and at the Tennis and Racquet Club—farfamed as the busiest young bars in Boston—failed to open for business today for the first time.

These exclusive clubs, frequented largely by young men, will stay dry until their mixup with the Licensing Board over their club liquor licenses is straightened out.

The Excise Board suspended the license of the two bars because the license money, the board says, has not been paid. As a matter of fact, it has been paid, the clubs say, but the receipt hasn't gone through the proper channels to the License Board's office up to date.

In addition to suspending these licenses, sweeping restrictions were laid upon twelve hotels in the city.

In issuing licenses to ten hotels the members of the board warned the proprietors to refuse admittance to all couples applying for lodging without baggage unless the clerk knows they are married.

These hotels are the Castle Square, Continental, New Marlboro, Higgins, Hollis, Strachan's, Brigham's and the Sorrento and the Revere and Tremont Houses. This order was issued in spite of the State law requiring inn keepers to furnish shelter to travelers and strangers. Excise Commissioner Dean says: "It is a move to prevent what you and I know exists."

REBELS DEMAND $100,000 TO FREE YOUNG EMERY

Relatives in Boston today telegraphed Senator Lodge asking him to use his influence to secure the release of Augustus B. Emery held for ransom by Mexican rebels near Zacatecas.

Emery is a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1900. Professor George H. Palmer of Harvard, retired, who lives on Quincy street, Cambridge, is one of the relatives here actively at work to secure his release.

Professor Palmer's brother, Frederic Palmer, said today:

"We have appealed to Senator Lodge to secure Mr. Emery's release. The Senator is exerting all his influence with the Administration. We have had no direct word from Mr. Emery for five weeks."

The word that Mr. Emery is held for ransom came in dispatches from Washington. According to these dispatches, the rebels demand 200,000 pesos or $100,000 for Emery's release.

Emery was manager of the La Fe mine at Guadelupe, a Central Mexican town. With Emery, also held for ransom is Charles A. Smith, an Englishman, an engineer in Emery's mine.

Emery's wife, with a number of mine employes, managed to elude the Rebels, reaching Aguas Calientes in safety.

Emery's ransom is demanded on the ground that it will be required to support the mine workmen during the shutdown necessitated by war troubles.

Telegrams sent from Zacatecas to Mexico City demanding the ransom bore the signature of Governor Barron in approval.

Emery graduated from the Lawrence Scientific School at Harvard in 1900 as a merchanical engineer.

Promoters to Run Cambridge Bouts Despite Protests

The war against boxing in Cambridge is on again—more bitterly than ever.

This evening Eddie Murphy of South Boston and Walter Mohr of New York, were booked to box twelve rounds at the University A. C. Three preliminaries were scheduled.

Now the members of the Law Enforcement Association, headed by the Rev. William MacNair, pastor of the Prospect Street Congregational Church, say that the bouts will not be held.

Today they appeared before Chief Whitney of the State police with a long petition, signed by many of the leading citizens of Cambridge, declaring that the bouts were contrary to law and should not be permitted.

Commissioner of Public Safety Henry J. Cunningham has also taken a hand. He has ordered the Cambridge police to be at the club tonight and see that no bout is staged.

But the officials of the University A. C. declare firmly that they will hold the meeting as scheduled.

Equitable Loses Suit Against the Union Pacific R. R.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The appellate division of the Supreme Court today handed down a decision declaring that the Union Pacific Railroad may distribute to its stockholders, without reference to the preferred stockholders, $80,000,000 of accumulated dividends.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, which holds $1,660,000 of the preferred stock of the Union Pacific, brought suit to force the Union Pacific directors to make the preferred stockholders participants in the division of dividends.

Justice Greenbaum decided against the preferred stockholders and the appellate division now sustains him.

FRANCIS BURTON HARRISON'S WIFE ON DOOMED SHIP

WASHINGTON, MAY 1.—A DISPATCH RECEIVED BY THE STATE DEPARTMENT TODAY INDICATES THAT THE PACIFIC MAIL LINER SIBERIA HAS SUNK. THE DISPATCH CAME FROM CONSUL WILLIAMSON AT TAMSU, FORMOSA. IT SAYS:

"FORMOSA GOVERNMENT INFORMED SIBERIA SIGNALLED REPEATEDLY FOR AID FROM LATITUDE 22:40, LONGITUDE 121:10. CEASED THIS MORNING. VESSELS SENT FROM KARENKO WILL TAKE SIX HOURS TO REACH THE SCENE NEAR KASHO ISLAND, SIX MILES OFF TAITO. FEAR SIBERIA FOUNDERED.

TOKIO, May 1.—The steamship Siberia, bound from San Francisco to Hongkong with 43 cabin passengers and a crew of 200 aboard, is sinking off the Island of Formosa, according to a dispatch from Nagasaki where the liner's S. O. S. call was picked up at a Japanese wireless station. Among the passengers is Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison, wife of the Governor-General of the Philippines.

Mrs. John B. Rentiers, wife of the newly-appointed British Consul at Manila, was another passenger.

mosa, says the Siberia went ashore today during a dense fog off the southeast coast about six miles from the mainland; that her position is dangerous, and that it is feared she will sink before assistance reaches her.

THREE WARSHIPS TO RESCUE.

A Japanese warship, an American steamship and two British cruisers are speeding to the rescue, but it is feared they will be too late to save any lives.

Upon receipt of news that there were American passengers upon the vessel George W. Guthrie, American Ambassador to Japan, asked that a Japanese warship be dispatched to the aid of the stricken vessel, and the Kanto Maru was at once gotten under way.

The American liner Minnesota, bound for Nagasaki, was intercepted by wireless, and reported that she would go to the scene. The British cruisers Minotaur and Yarmouth also left for the scene of the disaster at full speed.

The Japanese Navy Department has received and made public the following dispatch:

GOVERNOR-GENERAL CABLES NEWS.

"The Governor-General of Formosa cables that a Japanese cruiser, on her way to the Okinawa Islands, off the island of Kiushiu, reports that the Pacific Mail steamer Siberia met disaster this morning in long. 121.10 east lat. 22.10 north. She sent repeated signals of distress, which finally became indistinct. No details of the disaster are known. The Kanto Maru has been ordered to the scene."

The steamship Siberia, Captain Zeeder, belongs to the Pacific Mail Steamship line and plies between San Francisco, Honolulu, Yokohama and Hongkong. She left San Francisco on April 7 and was last reported from Yokohama, from which port she sailed April 27.

The Siberia is of 5,655 tons burden and was built at Newport News, Va. She is supplied with a wireless outfit and is valued at $1,250,000.

There were vague reports current here this evening, founded on a dispatch received from the capital of Formosa, that Chinese pirates, who recently burned the British steamer Tuion, off Macao, might have figured in the Siberia's plight.

SIBERIA STAUNCH AND 'UNSINKABLE'

NEW YORK, May 1.—Local representatives of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company declared today that the Siberia was one of the staunchest ships that sailed the Pacific and that every precaution possible had been taken by her builders to make her unsinkable.

The itinerary of the Siberia was given as follows: From San Francisco, which she left on April 7, to Honolulu, April 13; Yokohama, April 24; Kobe, April 27; Nagasaki, April 29, and Manila, May 5. The vessel carried a crew of 200. Her officers are: Master, A. Zeeder, first officer, Thomas Blau; chief engineer, J. S. Hamilton; purser, F. C. Charman; freight clerk, R. A. Standton; surgeon, S. H. Stanage; chief steward, C. K. DeCaro; second steward, E. A. Kirby.

The interior furnishings of the Siberia were among the finest of all the ships in the Oriental trade. The cabin staterooms were panelled in white with dark cherry trimmings. Forward on the promenade deck was the social hall, a great chamber running almost the breadth of the ship. This was finished in mahogany. Just after this was music room and library. In the main salon, in a prominent place is a bronze plate bearing an inscription from a speech by the late Collis P. Huntington, relative to the growth of the American marine in the Pacific.

WESTON MAN GIVES MACHINE GUN TO MILITIA

William C. Renwick of Boston, a lawyer in Boston, has purchased a machine gun for the use of the Massachusetts militia. Mr. Renwick will instruct the militiamen in the use of the gun.

Mr. Renwick is twenty-eight years old and has spent most of his life in California. He was graduated from Pomona University in the State of California and has taken graduate work in Harvard, Harvard Law School and in Paris.

While at Harvard Mr. Renwick joined the Eighth Regiment and later Troop C, First Squadron of Cavalry. At the beginning of Mexican hostilities, realizing that the Massachusetts militiamen would be severely handicapped without machine gun equipment and some knowledge of its use, he went to Washington and with considerable difficulty arranged for the purchase of one of these guns at a cost of $750.

The Governor has made an appropriate acknowledgement of the gift.

The gun is the so-called Benet-Mercier type and fires 500 shots a minute. Two men operate the gun, which, when in use, is mounted on a small tripod and can be carried by one man. It takes five mules to carry the ammunition, which consists of 48,400 rounds for each gun.

The gun will probably be given a tryout on the Wakefield range in a day or two.

TO URGE BETTER FIRE GUARDS AT MASS MEETING

Better fire protection, particularly for the occupants of big apartment houses which lack fire escapes, will be urged tonight at a mass meeting at No. 402 Huntington avenue at 8:30 o'clock. Mayor Curley is expected to be present. Senator Charles M. Cox will preside and will talk on fire protection legislation and "Self help by tenants." The meeting is a direct result of the Melvin fire horror in Allston in which eight lost their lives.

Other speakers will be Building Commissioner Ahearn, two representatives of Fire Commissioner Grady, District Chief Madison and Representative Wilson of Brighton.

A number of builders and contractors will take part in a discussion following the speeches.

The meeting will be under the auspices of the Ideal Club, founded by Miss Louise Chapman Hotchkiss.

Bodies Removed from Eccles Mine

ECCLES, W. Va., May 1.—The work of removing bodies of miners who perished in mine No. 5 of the New River Collieries Company as the result of Tuesday's explosion disaster, began early today. The first bodies brought to the surface were those of the thirteen victims who died at the foot of the shaft. Identification was difficult, because many are burned beyond recognition. All the water has been pumped out of the mine, but the rescuers are prevented from exploring the workings further than 600 feet from the shaft by wreckage formed by the explosion.

GET ORDER TO SUSPEND NAVY ENLISTMENTS

So great has been the number of enlistments in the United States navy for two weeks that orders were today issued from Washington to recruit no men except those who have been honorably discharged from service, the navy now having a full quota.

This is the first time since the fleet cruised around the world in 1907 that such an order has been issued.

"The number of applicants for enlistment has increased day by day," said an officer at the local station, "and there is no indication of a letup. Several young men having every qualification were turned away today, disappointed. They have been placed on the waiting list."

HEAVY GUARD FOR ROCKEFELLER HOMES AND NEW YORK OFFICE OF THE OIL TRUST

MINERS REFUSE TO LAY DOWN ARMS

DENVER, Col., May 1.—May Day, usually a day of unrest and violence in labor struggles, found peace prevailing in the coal strike districts of Colorado. It was an armed truce, however, with the strikers at some points scattering to the hills to prevent the seizure of their weapons and ready to answer a call to battle sent out by their leaders.

Federal troops sent into the State by President Wilson relieved the militia as rapidly as the regulars could be sent to points where disturbances had taken place.

The situation was still critical in the Trinidad and Walsenburg districts, where the strikers refused to lay down their arms as ordered by Major W. W. Holbrook, commanding the regulars, fearing they would be led into a trap and left at the mercy of the companies' machine guns. During the night hundreds of the strikers secreted their arms and ammunition in the hills, where they cannot be reached by searching troops.

REFUSE TO DISARM.

The men refuse to disarm until the mine guards lay down their weapons and the machine guns, which have mowed down men, women and children in battle during the last few weeks, are removed.

William Diamond of the United Mine Workers said today that the conditions imposed were such that the leaders could not accept. The strikers held a mass meeting at San Rafael Heights today. The situation was discussed and a plan of action outlined.

"We are not assured," said Diamond, "that the mine guards are to turn in their arms or that we can expect to get our rifles back. Unless such assurance is given I doubt if the men will agree to be disarmed."

Major Holbrook has given the miners twenty-four hours in which to comply with his demand.

Colorado coal operators today reiterated their determination not to give in to the demands of the men. The nineteen coal mine operating companies in this State—practically all in Colorado—refuse absolutely to consider a suggestion made by Chairman Foster of the House Mines Committee that negotiations for settlement of the strike be entered into on the basis that the recognition of unions should be formally waived by the United Mine Workers of America. Strike leaders were equally determined to maintain their present attitude towards the operators.

NEW TROUBLE THREATENED.

Trouble is now threatened at Oak Creek, several hundred miles from the scene of recent disturbances and over the range in the northwestern part of the State, as an echo of the uprising in the southern fields. Reports received here this morning said that many of the most reckless of the rioters were departing from Trinidad and Walsenburg and were on their way to Oak Creek. Deputy sheriffs late yesterday stopped an automobile near Oak Creek and seized three cases of ammunition. The mines in that vicinity were centres of strike trouble last Fall.

That the government troops intend to deal with the strikers and militiamen alike was shown by the arrest of several National Guardsmen for looting a saloon at Walsenburg. The saloon was one from which snipers had fired at militiamen and mine guards. The men were held in custody today at their own camps. A committee of safety at Boulder, in the northern district, where a strike has been in progress for five years, today appealed to Governor Ammons to declare the whole country under martial law. They declared that frequent shooting and attacks upon mines had been made since the strike opened, and that the lives of citizens were constantly endangered.

MOURNERS' PATROL.

Millionaires' Row, in West Fifty-fourth street, was invaded by the "mourners' patrol," and the "silent protest" against his refusal to arbitrate the Colorado strike was carried to the doorsteps of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Two arrests followed. Detective Ward took into custody Ralph Simon, twenty-one, and Maurice Rudone, eighteen, on a charge of loitering. In the night court Magistrate Nolan discharged the prisoners because the detective was unable to swear he had ordered them to move on.

A big demonstration in honor of the two defendants followed.

Fashionable residents of the district looked on in dismay at the unusual scene. Several policemen were on hand with instructions from Commissioner Woods not to interfere unless the men created disorder or loitered about the Rockefeller home.

Occasionally the walkers varied the monotony by crossing the street and marching past the home of John D. Rockefeller, Sr.

The vigil was maintained at the Rockefeller home all night.

In the Tombs, meanwhile, Mrs. Sinclair's husband, the novelist, was aggravating the hunger strike which he threatened the night before.

SINCLAIR WON'T PAY.

In the Tombs Court Sinclair, Miss Elizabeth Freeman, Mrs. Donia Lgitner, Mrs. Belle Zilberman and Mrs. Joseph Charter had been fined $5. The husbands of Mrs. Zilberman and Mrs. Charter paid their fines. Sinclair, Mrs. Leitner and Miss Freeman declined to pay the fine and were committed to prison for three days each.

"It is a protest against imprisonment for a guiltless act," said Miss Freeman. "I have created much larger crowds and done much more spectacular things and have not been molested. I have walked the streets wearing a large sash urging votes for women, I have sold newspapers and have collected great crowds. Yet for wearing a small band of crepe and walking quietly up and down the streets I am arrested and put in here."

"Please present my compliments to Mr. Rockefeller," said Upton Sinclair, "and tell him I hope he will enjoy his meal while I am fasting in jail."

Marie Ganz Again Threatens to Kill J. D. Rockefeller, Jr.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Renewed threats to kill John D. Rockefeller, Jr., were made by Marie Ganz, the anarchist agitator, during a speech that she delivered today to 3,000 persons in Mulberry Bend Park.

Rockefeller was denounced as being responsible for the "murder of women and children" in Colorado by many speakers, including Alexander Berkman and "Becky" Edelson.

The meeting was called by the anti-Militarist League and other radical organizations.

A strong force of police was on guard at the park, but the crowd was orderly and no attempt was made to stop the speeches.

W. E. Smith Takes Charge of Georgian

William E. Smith, famous Boston hotel man, appeared today as the new proprietor of the Georgian in Park square. He brought with him a new chef, Antoine Delemano, from the Hotel Somerset, and explained:

"I aim to make a specialty of fine cooking and moderate price. Incidentally I'm going to organize the waiters on a new plan of my own, to improve the service. I'm putting in a refrigeration service to keep the hotel fifteen to twenty degrees cooler than the street during the hot Summer days."

General Alarm for Braintree Fire

The postoffice and three stores were put out of business and the decorations of the Braintree Athletic Club's annual May festival were ruined in a $5,000 fire which partly destroyed Long's block, a three-story wooden building opposite the Braintree depot, early today. A general alarm was sounded.

ALARM OVER THREATS IN WAKE OF MINE WAR

NEW YORK, May 1.—The homes of John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the offices of the latter in the Standard Oil building at No. 26 Broadway are being guarded today as the result of demonstrations made yesterday by men and women agitators. While Upton Sinclair, who with Elizabeth Freeman and Mrs. Donia Leitner, was sent to prison for creating a disturbance in front of No. 26 Broadway, was on a hunger strike, five men wearing sashes inscribed, "Thou shalt not kill," began parading back and forth in front of the residence of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Mrs. Rockefeller in alarm telephoned for the police, but the men were not molested until they refused to obey the order "to keep moving," then two of them were taken into custody.

The real firebrand in the agitation against Mr. Rockefeller over the killing of strikers in the Colorado coal fields is "Sweet Marie" Ganz, an I. W. W. agitator, whose daily speeches are interrupted because of the obscenity and profanity of her language.

The police stationed in Printing House square, where there is a speakers' stand that is utilized daily during the noon hour by Socialistic or I. W. W. agitators, were under instructions from Public Commissioner Arthur Woods to keep a close watch to prevent inflammatory language. Alexander Berkman and other anarchists have taken advantage of the present rabid hostility against Mr. Rockefeller to leap into the limelight again. Berkman is trying to organize a mass meeting of protest.

Roxbury Boy of 15 Strangely Missing

The police of Greater Boston have been asked today to be on the lookout for Isaac Morris, fifteen years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morris of No. 73 Holworthy street, Roxbury, who mysteriously disappeared at 5:30 o'clock last night while he was out for a walk at Franklin Park.

STRANGE HONEYMOON FOR W. VINCENT ASTOR AND HIS BRIDE

LEADING figures in the Astor wedding: Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, mother of the bridegroom, at left; the bride, who was Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, and William Vincent Astor, the bridegroom.

COPYRIGHT VANDERWOOD, SUTTON & WOOD 1914

Spartan Courage Alone Sustains Young Millionaire during Wedding Ceremony.

NEW YORK, May 1—A strange honeymoon will be that of William Vincent Astor and his bride, who was Helen Dinsmore Huntington. The dream trip on the fairy boat Noma, long planned by the couple, has been put off for several weeks, and for at least a month this young man, all of whose enormous wealth cannot alter his suffering one twinge, will be constantly attended by physicians and nurses.

And a strange wedding it was with a room whose white, drawn face bespoke the pain from within. Only a rare courage sustained him during the ceremony yesterday in the "Hopeland House," at Staatsburg.

He was forced to retire to his room after the wedding breakfast and remain there until he could bid his bride left for Fernciffe late in the afternoon. The couple have hopes that the youth will have sufficiently recovered from the abscess on the joint to take the cruise on the Noma in June.

GUARDS AROUND HOUSE.

A member of the family said that Mr. Astor must be "exceedingly careful" of himself for several weeks.

For five hours yesterday the Huntington estate was as carefully guarded as a feudal castle during siege time. Frederick Hornbeck, sheriff of Dutchess County, with a number of his men, patrolled the estate, and were zealous in keeping out 24422 beyond the portals.

Several hundred thousand dollars' worth of presents—which have come from all parts of Europe and America—are closely guarded, too, until their transfer time is the day to safely deposit them in safekeeping.

A NEW SOCIAL DYNASTY.

Despite these ever-present evidences of wealth, the wedding itself could hardly have been more simple and lacking in ostentation if one of the tillers of Vincent Astor's broad acres had been taking to wife one of the Huntington maids.

Although the marriage means the formation of a new social dynasty, the guest list, as announced several hours after the ceremony, by the bride's father, occasioned great surprise. A great many of Mr. Astor's nearest relatives did not attend. His mother and sister, Mrs. John Astor and Muriel, were there, of course, but none of his cousins were present.

The absence of Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Mr. Astor's aunt, also filled a period of rumors. Mrs. Wilson left, for the marriage yesterday, crowding the announcement made at the Hotel Plaza, to visit Mrs. John Jacob Astor, sympathizer of the family.

Whether the latter, who was Majorie Gifford before her marriage to Colonel Astor, had received an invitation to the wedding could not be learned. Mrs. John Astor and Mrs. Orme Wilson have been exceedingly friendly of late.

The wedding ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock by the Rev. Reginald Heber Howe, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, in Staatsburg.

A soft, lowering sky and a patter of rain against the windows were unheeded shortly after the arrival of the costumes of those gathered in the drawing room. Orchids of Cornelia, camellias, smilax, jonquils and other spring flowers, with which the room was decorated.

OLD GARDENER PRESENT.

Besides the specially invited guests there were in the big room several servants, including Thomas Emerson, an old Scotch gardener, and an old man named Herrick, who has been on the estate of the bride's grandmother for fifty-five years.

The bride—tall, statuesque and very beautiful in her gown of old family lace, drape, ove, rulle, and a satin train, worn by her mother and grandmother at their weddings—entered on the arm of her father. She came through the "long room," so-called. From the opposite entrance to the library came young Astor and his best man, Herman Oelrichs.

While a five-piece orchestra in the hall softly rendered the wedding march from "Lohengrin," the party advanced to the satin and gilt prie dieu, behind which and before the Roman mantlepiece stood the minister. The reading of the service required only a few minutes.

SUN PIERCES RAIN CLOUDS.

Then the company adjourned to the sun parlor, where were eight tables decorated with apple blossoms. Hardly had the company been seated when the clouds parted and the rays of the reluctant sun burst through. This was hailed as a happy augury, and the bride and groom were felicitated afresh.

During the breakfast the six house dogs, with satin ribbons about their necks, gamboled among the tables. The dogs had been held in leash while the service was being read. They were released as soon as the Rev. Mr. Duncan had pronounced the couple man and wife, and they were really among the first to "congratulate" Mr. and Mrs. Astor.

After adding farewell to a score of the invited guests Mr. Astor excused himself and retired to his room. He did not emerge until a few minutes after 4 o'clock, when he and Mrs. Astor left in a limousine for Fernciffe.

There was great merriment among some of the younger members of the party when the bow-wowing squadron was organized by Herman Oelrichs and the omnibus pelted the couple until the drive was away.

Dr. Berrian had gone ahead to Fernciffe with two nurses, prepared as "invalid room" for Mr. Astor. The nurses will remain in constant attendance upon the young millionaire until his complete recovery.

The Astor yacht, The Noma, will remain at the Fernciffe dock fully provisioned and ready to sail at a few hours' notice.

The first honeymoon plans of Mr. Astor have been abandoned. These included a cruise to the West Indies and thence on a visit to the Mediterranean and the Orient later in the season. It was said yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. Astor still hope to use the Noma for the first stage of their honeymoon. Mr. Astor is very fond of the water, and he has, in addition, a strong sentimental attachment for the yacht in which he took so many voyages with his father.

In the event that his illness keeps him confined for several weeks longer, Astor has practically decided to send the Noma to Europe and to join the yacht on the other side with Mrs. Astor. In that event they will sail the latter part of May or the first of June on one of the regular ocean liners.

Mr. Astor was greatly disappointed. It was said yesterday, because he and Mrs. Astor could not carry out their original intention of a large church wedding to which they could invite all their friends. Eighteen hundred wedding announcements were sent out after yesterday's ceremony, but the small company present yesterday had been invited by informal notes penned by Mrs. Huntington's secretary.

NEWPORT AWAITS COUPLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Astor hope to take a large part in the social affairs next season. Although both are fond of the open, and they insist upon regarding Fernciffe as their "real home," they do not intend to become country recluses by any means.

Newport and New York will see a great deal of Mr. and Mrs. Astor, and a friend of the family yesterday said: "Mrs. Astor has qualities which will make her exceedingly popular in her new position as a matron of the younger set."

The usual quiet of the quaint village of Staatsburg was little disturbed by the big event up at "Hopeland House," two miles away. The villagers regarded the marriage as distinctly a local triumph. But the matter of rain prevented them from thronging about the station to welcome the guests who came in a special car of the 12:14 express.

MOTION PICTURES ARE TAKEN.

Ordinarily this train whizzes through the village so fast that the barkeeper in the Staatsburg Hotel can't even count the number of coaches.

Two automobiles and four buses from the Huntington stables and garage, in charge of Fred Huntington, uncle of the bride, met the train. Among those who came up from New York were R. P. Perkins, Mrs. Clarence Grey Dinsmore, great aunt of the bride; R. Thornton Wilson, Oliver W. Kemble, John J. Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dinsmore, Jr.

As they were piloted to the machines and buses the motion-picture men improved the opportunity for getting pictures they secured during the day.

GAYEST AIRS PLAYED.

Everything took on a joyous note once the ceremony was over and the relatives and friends had flocked around the happy young people to wish them joy. Frantzen's orchestra struck up the gayest airs, and the sun poured in into the Long Room and library, where yellow forsythia had been used to counterfeit sunshine when the early day looked so sad and gloomy.

The guests who had stood on each side of the ribboned aisle soon found their way to the enclosed veranda overlooking the Hudson, where Sherry had arranged the four-trimmed breakfast tables in this garden of pink and yellow Spring blooms. Owing to Mr. Astor's condition, the bride's table, which was, of course, decorated in white, was arranged in the library, almost in front of the fireplace, banked with Dorothy Perkins roses, white lilacs and bridal wreath, where the ceremony had been performed but a few minutes before, in front of a pie dies of white satin, under one of Lely's Tyrolean pictures.

SURPRISE WEDDING CAKE.

A surprise was planned by Mr. Sherry for the bride in the form of a tall white wedding cake topped with a tiny bride and bridegroom, under a marriage bell. The cake contained the usual good trinkets, bachelor button, ring, wishbone, lucky sixpence and ring, the latter falling to Miss Anna Wright, the Countess del Sera's daughter, who according to the old legend will be the next to wed. An effort in her case will hardly prove true unless she takes us very much by surprise, for Miss Anne Hoag, who was also at the bride's table and her fiancé, J. Griswold Webb, whom she is to marry on May 16.

The other guests around the bride and her three attendants, her sister, Miss Alice Huntington; Mr. Astor's sister, Miss Alice Muriel Astor, and Miss Margaret Iowa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Dows. The others were Herman Oelrichs, the best man; Mr. Astor's cousin, R. Thornton Wilson; Miss Katherine C. Miller and Miss Marion Carey Dinsmore.

GUESTS AT OTHER TABLES.

At the other tables on the veranda were the various members of the Huntington, Astor and Dinsmore families, and the few intimate friends who were asked to the wedding. Of course, the bride's parents, it goes without saying; Mr. Huntington's mother, Mrs. Huntington; the bride's uncle, Ford Huntington; her brother, Robert Dinsmore Huntington; her grandmother, Mrs. William B. Dinsmore; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dinsmore, Jr.; William B. Dinsmore, 3d; Mrs. Clarence Gray Dinsmore, Miss Claire Dinsmore, Miss Madeleine Dinsmore, three aunts from Boston—Mrs. Waldo Adams, Mrs. Edward Adams and Mrs. J. R. Bradt; Mr. Astor's mother, Mrs. John Astor; his cousin, Richard Peters.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Biddle, William A. Dobbyn, who was the late Colonel Astor's private secretary and acts in like capacity to Vincent Astor; Lewis Cass Ledyard, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich of Boston, Mrs. M. Lewis Clark of Louisville, Ky., a cousin of the bride's father; G. Beekman Hoppin, Arthur P. Sturges, Oliver S. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Dows, Master Olin Dows, John Jay Chapman, J. Roosevelt Roosevelt, an uncle by marriage of Mrs. Astor; Mumford Crosby and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Rogers, Edmund P. Rogers, Miss Elizabeth Lynch, Mrs. Hosking of Shattleburg, the Rev. Charles H. Duncan, who performed the ceremony, and Mrs. Duncan, and the Rev. and Mrs. Little of Hibbeben.

The family servants, of course, were present at the ceremony, and the superintendents of the Astor, Dinsmore and Huntington estates. They were specially invited.

The scene during the breakfast was a charming one, and I had an opportunity to see more in detail the lovely flowers that trimmed the long Elizabethan room, which the bride and her father entered as they came down the marble staircase, trimmed with lilies and roses, on their way to the improvised floral chapel.

'PASTOR WEEMS AND SMITH OUR WORST LIARS'

NEW YORK, May 1.—"Our two greatest historical liars were Captain John Smith and the Rev. Mason Locke Weems," said Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard at the banquet of the Sons of the Revolution last night. He continued to shatter traditions, saying: "Captain Smith gave us the story of his rescue by Pocahontas. It was all untrue—lie. The Rev. Weems wove about Lincoln immortal lies—the story of George Washington and the hatchet. I was going to say the cherry tree—but maybe there was a cherry tree.

"Professor Hart said the Rev. Weems was not through when he finished that one. He told a lot more anecdotes about Washington, all just as true as the one he began with.

"The speaker organized an Ananias club of his own, a list of historical liars.

"The professor put three preachers in it, the Rev. H. H. Spalding, the Rev. Richard Peters and the Rev. William Gordon, who wrote the 'History of the Revolution.'"

"I wish that the Rev. Peters was still alive to write the history of Roosevelt — what a chance," exclaimed Professor Hart.

Other "liars" he put in the list were the historians, James F. Shunk, who found the Cotton Mather letter, and H. Middleton Miller, who furnished a prominent periodical with the Mecklenburg declaration of independence. Among the lesser lights he placed Ray Carleton Tree, Colonel A. C. Deuel, John Josselyn, Marcus Whitman and James Beckwith.

It was announced that James Mortimer Montgomery has been chosen president of the national organization of the Sons of the Revolution.

Famous tweeds woven BY HAND in the Harris isles, Scotland, and made up by a maker we believe equalled by none in America.

Ten different patterns ranging all the way from very daring shades to unusual but conservative patterns.

And the best part of the suits is the way they are made—silk sleeve linings and ¼ silk linings that harmonize to suit the finest artistic sense.

As a matter of fact, these suits have no license to be less than $45.

Black and White Homespun Suits $20 or $25

In New England this material is better known as a tweed. These suits promise to be very popular this season, following the run on homespun Balmacaan top-coats.

Mohair lined or ¼ silk lined with silk back shoulder free vests.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT VERY ILL

MANAOS, Brazil, May 1.—Theodore Roosevelt, racked with fever and a shadow almost of his former strenuous self, concluded his exploring tour of South America today and sailed for New York.

The former President is almost a physical wreck. Fever attacked him in the dense tropical growth along the Madeira River and for over a month he battled for life. During the past three weeks his sole diet has been eggs and tea. He is so emaciated and weak that it is impossible for him to stand more than five minutes at a time. Attendants carry the colonel from place to place.

In describing one stage of his journey through new and untraveled lands, Colonel Roosevelt said that for forty days he was shut in deep canyons with cliffs 1000 to 300 feet in height. Travel was slow and tedious. There was no sun, and the expedition trudged along at a quarter of a mile daily.

Fortunately, the fever attack occurred after the most perilous and difficult part of the journey was over. Otherwise Colonel Roosevelt would have been unable to pull through.

The colonel is optimistic on the future of South America. Brazil, he believes, will make history for South America in the twentieth century just as North America made history for the nineteenth century.

The former president made only a brief stay in Manaos. He was greeted by the Governor of the State of Amazonas and then hurried his preparations for returning to New York. He declined to comment in any way upon the Mexican situation. Kermit Roosevelt goes to Spain, while the other members of the expedition return to the United States.

Besides discovering new rivers the expedition was successful in securing hundreds of specimens of birds and animals. Traces of Indians were found in the fastnesses of Brazil, but these were avoided.

Malaria at one time threatened the little party. Game was scarce and fish impossible to catch and for a time the party lived on ships biscuit, a food being doled out daily to each man.

George K. Cherrie, the naturalist with the party and accompanist to the colonel's reminiscences, declared that in his thirty years' experience in the tropics he never had such a trying experience as with the Roosevelt party.

FIREBUG SETS $50,000 LYNN FACTORY BLAZE

Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, caused a damage of $50,000 to the leather factory of A. Jacobson & Sons at No. 135 Market street, Lynn, early today. Two alarms were sounded, but the firemen confined most of the damage to the fourth and fifth floors.

The blaze is believed to have been the work of the firebug, who has spread terror among the occupants of tenement houses in the vicinity of Summer and Shepard streets, West Lynn. The Jacobson fire is the fifteenth set by the pyromaniac in the last three days.

Four fires were set while the police were guarding the danger zone and the State police have joined the hunt. Harold S. Field, fourteen, of No. 252 Summer street, and Herman Collins, fourteen, of No. 5 Prospect street, Lynn, were taken into custody as suspects, but later released.

Cardinal Gibbons for "No License"

BALTIMORE, May 1.—In a signed statement to the Anti-Saloon League Cardinal Gibbons expressed the hope that Charles County will go "dry" at the special election on May 18. The statement is as follows:

"I believe that the right of the people to determine by the operation of a local option law whether saloons shall or shall not be closed within their respective communities is in harmony with the American principle of self-government, and I congratulate the people of Charles County in that they will have the right to settle the question by ballot on May 18 next, and realizing the damage which has been done by the liquor traffic in this county, I sincerely trust that at the coming election they will banish forever the licensed saloon, as I believe it will be to the best interests of their people.

J. CARDINAL GIBBONS.

Deny Mexican Girls Had to Salute Flag

The students of the Bridgewater Normal school and Miss Sepulveda and Miss Perez, two Mexican girls who attend there, have combined in issuing a denial of the story printed in several Boston papers that the school girls forced the two Mexican girls to salute the American flag when the Mexican troubles started. The school, as a body, adopted a resolution expressing high respect and warm sympathy for Miss Sepulveda and Miss Perez, and the two girls issued a statement that "We take this opportunity to tell the people that teachers and students have been very kind to us. Far from causing us trouble, they help us to forget them."

SCORE BRYAN ON PEACE POLICY IN SANTO DOMINGO

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Disgusted with the policies of Secretary of State Bryan, advices received here today indicate that American residents of the republic of Santo Domingo are planning to make a number of reprisals sensitive to lay before Bryan in person a statement of conditions existing.

Passengers on the steamship Arca from Santo Domingo city declare that matters within a month have been in serious peril for both life and property. A number of Americans employed in sugar mills and banana centers have been driven from their homes within a month, and hasty departure from the country is now the only means left open to them to escape bodily harm. Many of these people say they had trouble under the Heureaux regime, but that military graft finally is playing around the people as President Wos has no legal claim to the office and is to the citizens of but 2 per cent. of the voters of the republic.

"If this is the Bryan peace policy," they say, "it is a policy which most decidedly fail to bring peace down there.

"DENIED U. S. PROTECTION.

"It may interest the Department of State to know that the presence of an Englishman in town whenever there is a fight going on is always considered a guarantee that we have learned that in Latin-America the American idea of fair play is a liability rather than an asset."

In regard to the time they lay, the passengers on the Arca differ. One says that September, when the Dominican revolution started, and Dudderino, who is a Dominican subject, Chief Engineer Collins of the Dominican railroad asked protection from Minister Sullivan. He said he could give no protection and that the Americans must leave the island. Puerto Plata was in the hands of revolutionists and President Jimenes had two gunboats bombarding the town.

Minister Sullivan elected a statement that he could give no protection, and said he would welcome a bombardment. Thereupon, when a British gunboat arrived, the American made a written request of the Englishman, and their commander took charge. Would protect any and all Americans, and the bombardment ceased.

"HELD UNFAIR ELECTION.

Following the first outbreak of the rebellion, the passengers say, Mr. Sullivan had personally arrived in the country, and had come to Puerto Plata and had a conference with the rebel leaders. He made them this proposition: That they lay down their arms and stop the revolution, and you shall have the things you demand, namely, a free election of a President, and of the Governors of the various provinces. You shall have this under the guarantee of the United States." The rebels accepted and laid down their arms.

"In the Winter the election came on. Call it was far from being a free

EXACTITUDE IS BUSINESS NEED, SAYS BELMONT

Telling boys how to win success, August Belmont, New York banker, was one of seven successful business men who joined at the Boston City Club in advising about 150 of the sons of members of that organization. He said:

"Exactitude is very important in all commercial business. If you have prepared yourself somebody will notice your fitness. The employer is looking for brains and for ambition all the time. The men in my office who have become indispensable were men who did not think that they were expecting recognition, but kept on trying to make the best of the position and working hard."

Other speakers were Frederick P. Fish, District Attorney Pelletier, Vice-President Brush, of the Elevated, H. Staples Potter and Arthur L. Williston, principal of the Wentworth Institute.

Mystified by Girl Found Unconscious

Early today Patrolman Fay found an unconscious girl lying on the sidewalk in front of No. 201 D street, South Boston. At the City Hospital she said she was Mary Apetlauria, fourteen years. Her experience is a mystery. At 1 p. m. yesterday she left her home at No. 252 Second street, South Boston, to visit for work. She was able to tell her mother this morning that she went to a moving picture show. The mother said: "She left after went to the 'movie.' She seems stupefied, as though she had some drug in her. Maybe they gave her that at the hospital. She can't tell anything."

Harvard Seniors Hold Annual Junket

Harvard seniors made merry at their annual junket held in the football cage on Soldiers' Field. A cup and ball contest, the object of which was to induce each man to take a bath with his clothes on, was a popular game. The men paid money to play it, and the cash will go into the senior picnic fund.

Election. Troops were posted in the streets, firing rifles to intimidate the better class of voters. The Dordias government brought in 1000 men by trains and voted them three and four times. The United States had sent men to oversee the elections from Cuba and Porto Rico.

"The Sullivan report declared it the fairest election ever seen in the island. It was not. In Santo Domingo City, where he was, the people were afraid to vote. And the United States observers were in the Fenwick Hotel there during the voting time, and saw nothing at all.

LINES NEED NOT TAX THE PUBLIC, SAYS BRANDEIS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Eastern railroads need money, but can get it without increased rates to the public, according to the argument of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the 5 per cent. advance rate case.

He maintained that to make a horizontal advance in all freight rates, as proposed by the railroads, was illegal and beyond the powers of the Commission. Mr. Brandeis said steps could be taken as soon as possible to increase the carriers' revenues, and suggested that testimony given at the Commission's hearings had shown how that might be done without increasing rates.

He referred to the elimination of special allowances to shippers, free switching and other free services now performed by the roads.

Clifford Thorne of Iowa, representing eight Middle Western States in opposition to the proposed advance, maintained that the railroads had seen making more gross and more net income during the last four years than in any previous four years in their history.

Root Wants to Buy Bust of Lincoln

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Senator Root has introduced a bill to appropriate $12,000 for the purchase of a bust of Abraham Lincoln by Saint Gaudens and a replica of the figure of Victory Peace in the Sherman group at the entrance of Central Park in New York. The pieces would be placed in the National Museum here.

Dies After Getting Black Hand Letters

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—John P. Holmes, grand keeper of records and seals of the Knights of Pythias is dead, after worrying for two months over black hand letters which he had received at intervals of a few days. His wife is dying, and physicians say she probably would not live a week.

SAYS SULPHUR IS SURE TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Get an Ounce of Bold-Sulphur Cream and Heal Skin Eruptions Right Up.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body, whether accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and scaly, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He instructs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching, irritation, and soothing and heals the Eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. While not to be recommended as a complete bold-sulphur cream is useful in the treatment of cutaneous disorders from its germ and parasite-destroying properties. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure, it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away, and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome. This is published for Walter Luther, Dodge Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

RIGHT AND FORBIDDEN USES OF OLD GLORY ARE DEFINED

The American flag is a symbol of the brotherhood of man. It stands for courage, for chivalry, for generosity and honor.

No hand must touch it roughly; no hand shall touch it irreverently.

Its position is aloft, to float over its children, uplifting their eyes and hearts by its glowing colors and splendid promise; for under the Stars and Stripes are opportunities unknown to any other nation of the world.

The government commands the people to honor their flag. Men and boys should uncover as they pass the vivid stripes which represent the lifeblood of brave men, and the stars which shall shine on forever.

It must be raised at sunrise; lowered at sunset. It is not a plaything of the hour. It is a birthright of privilege and integrity.

It may not be used as staff, or whip, or covering.

It shall not be marred by advertisement, nor desecrated on the stage.

It must always be carried upright.

—By Ida Louise Gibbs of Waltham, State D. A. R. Chairman on prevention of flag desecration.

HONOR FOR OLD GLORY THROUGH MEXICAN CRISIS

ALL over New England the flag is going up above homes and business houses as never before. Men and women and children are uniting in showing their loyalty and patriotism.

If you haven't a flag, get one. If you have one, and are not showing it, show it. Show your colors, whatever else you do.

Ida Louise Gibbs of Waltham, State chairman for the Prevention of the Desecration of the Flag of the Massachusetts D. A. R., has written theatrical managers throughout the State the following letter, urging a wiser honoring of the flag:

"Courteously addressed to theatrical managers:—

"This is not an appeal for favor, but a suggestion for consideration, by those men, the universal educators of a cosmopolitan people, the American theatrical managers, whose opportunity for driving home a lesson, incisive and enduring, is greater than school or church or club.

RISE FOR THE FLAG.

"Will the great theatrical university, under its syndicated educational faculty, go on record as refusing to allow the use of the national insignia upon their stage in any form save upright on its staff?

"Will they refuse to bill their player with a simulation of the flag?

"And, if compelled by dramatic construction, the flag is brought upon the stage, will it be done by ushers to piece to the audience the signal for rising?

Hundreds of letters are coming to the Flag Relief from all over New England, where the flag is being flung to the breeze. Some of these follow:

LEROY P. CAMMETT of No. 592 Washington street, Haverhill: "I am a little boy, nine years old. My father's Uncle John lives with us and he has a flag and a staff out our parlor window. It will stay till the war ends or the flag wears out—and then we'll get a new one."

MAUDE FOWERS of No. 12 Cleveland avenue, Malden, says: "I raised the flag Sunday. I raised it because I love it. My grandfather fought for it in the Civil War, as captured, sent to Libby Prison, got a bullet in his leg, and is in the Soldiers' Home now. I respect the flag. It is riddled with bullets, but it still waves in the breeze. It is waving in Mexico now." Miss Fowers is only eleven years old.

"MAKE MEXICANS SALUTE"

CLARA H. MDORMAND of No. 193 Medford street, Somerville, writes: "I think the world of the dear old Stars and Stripes. There is no flag on earth like it. If I had my way about the Mexicans I would make every one of them salute the Stars and Stripes."

SADIE NEARY of No. 607 Tower street, Fall River: "I raised my flag when the country went to war, and I will keep it up. God bless it. I hope every American will do all he can for his country."

MRS. E. J. RIDDIELD of No. 101 Franklin street, North Adams: "The Stars and Stripes are now waving over my home, as they should over every home in time of war."

CHRISTIE GONDEK of No. 46 Farrington street, Brockton: "I am a little boy six years old, and I love my flag and my country. My brother, Lillian, and I have hung the flag this morning, and we gave three cheers for Uncle Sam."

JAMES E. MOOWAN, JR., of No. 175 South street, North Attleboro (a boy of ten): "I put my flag out Sunday, and now there are three others on our street."

MISS FRANK A. CARTER of No. 12 Bay street, Roxbury: "I shall hoist the Stars and Stripes from my home. We love our flag and wish to show our love for it and our protection for the land our fathers gave their lives for."

HAS COLORS FLYING.

JAMES F. GOODRIDGE of West Fitchburg: "In response to your suggestion that our glory be displayed by everyone during the present war crisis, will say that the colors are flying over my home and that I am proud of it. Three cheers for our brave boys who have gone to Mexico."

CLIFFORD H. MARSHALL of No. 10 West street, Roslindale: "I have hung out my flag with the hope that, if there is a war with Mexico, our brave soldiers and sailors will win. I am a little boy, eight years old, and would like to be a soldier when I am a man."

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

End Itching Scalp and Stop Falling Hair—At Once.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp, and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging at the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, wavy, and soft, and look and feel a hundred times prettier.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. If not only destroys the hair, but makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, and lifeless, and ruins its beauty completely. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Smart Clothes FOR Young Men

Webster defines "Smart" as "vigorous—clever—handsome—above the average." All of which are unusually apt as applied to Morse-Made Academy Clothes for young men.

Particularly the new spring models. For there is a dash a freshness, a distinctive style to them that finds immediate favor with those young men who are particular about their dress.

And yet our "Smart" Academy Clothes for young men are most satisfactorily priced. No higher in fact than ordinary clothes.

We are going to make it worth while for young men to come to our Academy Department today and tomorrow. This is what we're going to do. We'll sell 100 Academy Suits—fresh from our factory that usually cost up to $20, for $16.50

Included are Gray, Brown, Blue, Green and Black suits with pencil stripe effects, single and double breasted models, sizes 32 to 38.

We are now showing an immense variety of clear-cut wear-resisting worsted suits for men in conservative models at $20

Only for the low tariff on woolens these suits would be $25.

STANDARD OIL TRUST, BIG BENEFICIARY OF CLOSED CANAL, SAYS ALFRED HENRY LEWIS

COMPETITION BLOCKED BY TOLLS AT PANAMA

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—No senate in any age has been without its prophets. The present Elijahs of that body tell you that the basis of amendments and debate over Mr. Wilson's ill-considered charge to please England, Mr. Carnegie and the railroads will, at stated speed, occupy four weeks.

There is a feeling that Mr. Wilson is not so violently in canal earnest as he was. The London newspapers—even his beloved "Thunderer of the Times"—have made fun of his "Huerta policy." Being sensitive, as are all of the bookish tribe, Mr. Wilson has felt and still feels these gentle slights and sarcasms. They were hardly cushy, he thinks, considering how at the very first he was going all he presidentially could for England.

My own feeling is that the English canal bill will be attended cast to pieces.

There is another Richmond in the closed canal pro-English field. This particular Richmond is a Standard Oil Richmond, and although I didn't cut his trail or distinguish his exact spot, I still know he has been signed only in the thick of things from the first.

ALL IN OIL PRICE.

It had more than once struck me as marvelous that I had found no trace of Standard Oil and the Rockefellers. They overlook but few chances. The miracle disappeared today, however, when I beheld Rockefeller-Standard Oil backfire some (or a moment) upon the agriculturists.

There is a big group of important oil producers in California. All must be carried their "stuff" to sells East. The quantity shipped Astward is small. The California oil price is 55 cents a barrel. By the journey East the California oil would use the canal. A closed non-English Wilsonized canal would add a round toll of 25 cents to each barrel.

The price of California oil would be not 55 cents, but 80 cents a barrel. In brief, the only difference between an American free canal and an English-Wilsonized closed canal would be as the difference between free trade and protection. The closed Wilson pro-English canal will "protect" by 25 cents a barrel the Rockefeller Standard Oil product from the independent oil of California.

OTHERS IN THE FIGHT.

Also the English-Oil Owners, all in the Tampico districts in as acutely concerned as are the Rockefellers. Thus the rollcall of objectors to a free canal keeps growing. The world knew of the railroads and their support of a Wilsonized pro-English closed canal. It knew of the pernicious Mr. Carnegie, with his specious Pence Pamphlets, but Steel and his Lever, his Butlers and his Schwabs, thinking Dollars while talking Pence, ready to serve and save England as the Steel Trust's best customers.

It knew of Mr. Hoskins, of J. P. Morgan & Co. and John Hall, for the Great Northern, and Premier Borden, for the Canadian Pacific, and Edward Tyrrell, for Earl Grey, and sir Lionel Carden for Lord Cowdray and the Tampico fields, and Mr. Lamont with the White House ear, and the canal free to our coastwise trade, and not another word of it, by the similar closed canal interest of the Rockefellers and Standard Oil.

OIL CONCESSIONS.

Speaking of oil reminds me of George Whitney Fairchild, representative from the Oswego (New York) district, and vice-president of the Board of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. Two weeks ago Mr. Fairchild journeyed West to see Carranza. He bore letters to such friends of "Charles R. Flint" and "Elihu Root," and "Lyman, Kline & Co." from Flint it is to be feared that he would have no trouble in meeting the rebel chief.

The Fairchild-Carranza session may only be guessed at. It may, or it may not, have something more of import to do with oil. Carranza has made over certain broad oil concessions to a group of unnamed Texas men. The concessions are in the neighborhood of Tampico. Also to be note they must redeem themselves for their action upon a Carranza triumph.

These concessions make weight to the charge of Mr. Fairchild, which bonds were issued to the tune of Caranza about those Tampico oil concessions and that $10,000,000 bundle of chihuahua boncs?

As provision for their payment Carranza arranged an export tax on oil to be paid to the bondholders. Hon Mr. Fairchild of Otsego and the House Foreign Committee, friend of Mr. Root and Mr. Flint and member of Finch, Edye & Co., gone West to meet Carranza about those Tampico oil concessions and that $10,000,000 bundle of chihuahua bones?

As to the Fairchild-Carranza session, what transpired was doubtless of a character to please Mr. Flint. Carranza, after all, is not a fool. He knows that Villa could be crushed, and that he, Carranza, is the only man to do the trouble and shoot Carranza. The story, afterward denied, but with many explosive signs, going to show the impression prevalent that great rubber corporations had sought to kill Villa, haven't been regarded as a good insurance risk for some time. Carranza, even as Villa, is a strong man, and there are those near Carranza who would like to see Villa live to provide increasing 50,000 bales of stolen cotton, and there are Carranzistas

A Message to Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 lbs of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the scientific discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. Your druggist has Sargol, or can get it from his wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces, as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

CAUTION—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh-builder.

MEDIATORS CONSIDER CALDERON AS SUCCESSOR TO HUERTA IN MEXICAN PEACE PLANS

A-B-C ENVOYS HOPEFUL OF ENDING CONFLICT

By W. N. TART.
Staff Correspondent of the American at the White House.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Acceptance by General Huerta of the proposal for peaceful negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the conflict between him and the United States, the South American mediators today proceeded with their negotiations so far as the United States and Huerta are concerned.

General Carranza and the Constitutionalists have been eliminated temporarily from the peace plans of the mediators because the rebel chief has not indicated to them officially whether or not he will consent to a truce with Huerta.

The mediators have given up hope that they will be able to induce Carranza to suspend hostilities against the Federals. Declarations by rebel chiefs are said to have convinced the diplomats that the Constitutionalists will not consent to lay down their arms because of their favorable positions at present.

AID BY OTHER POWERS.

It has been the plan of the mediators to endeavor to settle the whole Mexican problem, including the internal strife and the troubles between the United States and Huerta, and the stand of General Carranza and his followers may mirror the negotiations which will be carried on between the Mexico City and the Washington governments for the present.

One of the most satisfactory developments of the negotiations in the encouraging attitude of the European powers. This has served to increase the optimism of the administration officials in the belief that the Mexican trouble will be adjusted without recourse to further hostilities.

Secretary of State Bryan stated today that he anticipated a speedy conclusion of the negotiations although there will be no disposition to hurry them. The length of time this would be consumed will depend largely on whether the Constitutionalists should become dissatisfied with the negotiations should Carranza finally refuse to accept an armistice, the work of the diplomatic necessarily will be limited to the Huerta factions and an earlier decision is anticipated than if the entire Mexican problem were involved.

CALDERON FOR PRESIDENT.

Gossip in diplomatic circles today suggested Fernando Iglesias Calderon as a probable compromise President for the republic, should the mediators be able to induce the warring factions to consent to an election for Huerta's successor.

Senor Calderon is Consul General of Mexico and the minister is most enthusiastic in his praise of the young diplomat. He has been assigned by General Pindera from his post at Vera Cruz, where he was a political intimate of Madero.

Senor Calderon is understood to enjoy the respect and confidence of all factions in Mexico and his name is almost the only one of the first rank which has not been identified with the various factions in the long years of civil war in the republic. He is regarded as the man who might unite the revolution torn country and restore peace.

FRENCH MISSION TO CAPITAL.

A special train flying a French flag left today for Mexico City upon a mysterious mission. It was guarded by a detachment of federal soldiers and boarded it near Potsdam. M. Bonnet, the French Consul at a conference with General Maas had arranged for the train guard. M. Bronet will act as passenger upon the train, and he was accompanied by H. T. Hance and Stephen Bottley, who obtained passports from the British Consul here.

There is much speculation when the duties of the chief American officers and marines will be taken from shore duty by the transfer of the government from its navy to the army. Five officers and about 100 men are affected by the order. They are expected to reach Vera Cruz on the transport Hancock, which is now at Galveston, Texas, on Monday or Tuesday.

HOSPITAL CORPS BUSY.

Because of the change of atmosphere and water the hospital corps which came with the Fifth Brigade has rude extensive operation to treat sickness. The soldiers on the outskirts still have trouble with their bowels getting used to the blazing sun of noonday and the raw nippy nights.

Three torpedo boats, including the Henley, were ordered to Tampico where considerable disturbance exists. Wireless messages from that city say that Brigadier-General Funston, commanding the American and Constitutionalist are still engaged.

Only one American, E. W. Steese of Spokane, Wash., has arrived on the last refugee train arriving from Mexico City, out of nearly 147 Americans who left after all the Americans there they are to be rounded.

"An upheaval in the capital will not be surprising," declared the refugees. "If it were not for the American's doggedness of facing the present situation would not exist. Huerta knows that his power is waning, but he still holds on. The political enemies are growing bolder daily.

CONFIDENCE IN CARRANZA.

"Carranza is confident of success. He has the confidence of the people. Villa is a bandit. Carranza is a statesman. Villa is a robber. Carranza is a patriot. Villa is a murderer. Carranza is a gentleman. Villa is a coward. Carranza is a hero. Villa is a fool. Carranza is a genius. Villa is a lunatic. Carranza is a saint. Villa is a devil. Carranza is a god. Villa is a man. Monsignor Lavelle Advises Parents to Pet Their Children

NEW YORK, May 1.—"Don't be afraid to show affection to your children. Don't fear that it will spoil them. If you don't pet and praise the little ones, someone will some day and then they will snap at it like a hungry fish at a piece of half attached to a hook. This advice applies more to girls than it does to boys."

Thus advised the Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, to 200 mothers at a meeting of the Chelsea Neighborhood Association.

We Question No Merchant's Intentions—Only His Ability

To try to give customers their "money's most" is one thing—to really give it is quite another. Every reputable merchant must be credited with trying. With us—it is not so much due to better intentions as to superior ability that this Live Store stands pre-eminent as the greatest value-giving institution of its kind in New England—if not in the whole country.

Here you find all the prime essentials of greater value-giving: We enjoy all the price and quality advantages of being the largest spot-cash buyers of Good Clothes in New England. We have the lowest overhead expense per size of store and per volume of business. No part of our capital is tied up in charge accounts, but every dollar of it is kept working all the time.

Thus through inclination, ability and expert merchandising, greater value-giving becomes the very cornerstone of this big business—not an idle claim such as anyone with access to the columns of this paper might make—but an oft-proven reality, known and understood by a vast and ever-increasing number of men who want and appreciate Good Clothes and the biggest possible money's worth.

On this basis we offer the finest clothing that human skill can produce. Occupying the foremost place are

Kuppenheimer Clothes at $18 to $35

These are the clothes that are most talked about by everyone, everywhere—and are better off by reason of the conversation. The Great House of Kuppenheimer doesn't know how to make anything but the finest clothes, and their styles are accepted as the standard in all sections of the country. Kuppenheimer Clothes at Kennedy prices form a combination that's never yet been approached for quality, economy and satisfaction.

This man who hasn't time to much money, to spend puts himself ahead of the game by at least $2.50 when he takes his choice of the smartly all wool, well-styled and well tailored suits we offer at $12.50

Collegiate styles that you'll see everywhere, in custom tailors' stores at exceptional prices. $20 are here at $15—and more! better makers at that. Prove this at our risk. Money back if not satisfied $15.00

REDBIRD IS SLATED TO PITCH AGAINST HIGHLANDERS TODAY

MURPHY-MOHR IN STAR BOUT AT CAMBRIDGE

By JACK CONWAY.

Eddie Murphy of South Boston and Walter Mohr, who hails from Brooklyn, will furnish the entertainment in the feature bout of ten rounds at the University A. C. in Cambridge this evening.

The contest has aroused a great deal of interest among the scrapping fans, "fans" and a large number of the faithful are expected to turn out in order to witness the festivities.

* * *

Murphy has been made a favorite in the betting and, barring accidents, should breeze in a winner. Mohr, however, is a young man who does not need any introduction and is certain to give a good account of himself.

There are few lightweights who have anything on Murphy. South Boston's esteemed citizen has fought some of the leading men in his class and has usually made a fine showing.

* * *

Murphy's remarkable speed and skill have enabled him to puzzle his opponents. There are few boxers who can get around a ring with the precision and grace that Murphy has shown in his encounters in this city. Consequently friend Mohr will probably have his troubles tonight.

Murphy claims the lightweight championship of New England and bases his claims on his victory over Matty Baldwin. The Charlestown boy, however, asserts that he is still the king of New England's 135 pound glove men as his last tussle with Murphy was fought at two pounds above the lightweight limit.

* * *

With the exception of Baldwin, there does not seem to be a lightweight in New England who is in the same class with Murphy. He did not experience much trouble in disposing of Gilbert Gallant while he outpointed the resourceful Joe Eagan.

Mohr arrived in Boston yesterday and engaged in a short workout at a local gymnasium. He is a strong, well built young man and is not a bit bashful in stating that he will surprise Murphy by his work tonight.

* * *

The Brooklyn boxer is not a stranger in this section of the country as he has fought several times at New England clubs. He is not as clever a boxer as Murphy, but is very husky and keeps forcing the issue in all of his battles.

A "go" between a fast, shifty boxer and an aggressive, ambitious fighter usually proves interesting. The scientific glove man is generally favored in short bouts, but there is always a chance that the fighting will land a dream punch.

As there is not a boxer in the world, who will not take the count if he is hit hard enough. The wise men tell us of the iron man of the ring, but even these popular gentlemen occasionally are knocked out.

* * *

A good preliminary card has been arranged. Billie Hart of Lynn will meet Bob Smiley of Cambridge, in a semi-final whirl of six rounds. Joe Quinn, another Cambridge boy, will exchange blows with Billie Brooks of Lowell in a six-round battle, while the opening bout will be a six-round affair between Joe Ferry, who resides in Lawrence, and Frankie McMarrow who is attempting to win ring honors for the fair City of Salem.

BOXING RESULTS.

At Elmira, N. Y.—Jack ("Twin") Sullivan won a hard fought decision over Jack Curphey, the English Army champion.

At Lawrence—Tommy Murphy of South Lawrence won over Billy Burke of Lynn in 10 rounds. Larry Burns of North Andover stopped Joe Perry of Lynn in nine rounds; Phinney Boyle of Lowell stopped Tommy Carson of Lawrence in five rounds, and Battling Joe Carroll of Lawrence stopped Billy Edwards of Lawrence in seven rounds.

* * *

At New York—Eddie Campi, the bantamweight champion of California, defeated Young Kid England in a 10-round bout which went the limit at the Stadium A. C.

At Philadelphia — Young Diggins again triumphed over Willie Mack at the Broadway A. C. in a bout that was fast every second of the milling.

West to Box Palitz at Bridgeport Club

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., May 1.—Chick West of Holyoke, Mass., and Kid Palitz of New London, Ct., were signed this afternoon to box ten rounds in this city, May 15, the main bouts on the card will be between Bobby Reynolds and Frankie Fleming, and Sunny Ford and Al Ketchell.

Three New Haven Players Suspended

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 1.—Notice of the suspension of three New Haven players was filed with President James H. O'Rourke of the Eastern Association today. They, who played centre field for the Wings last year, Chinky Chunn, the former Bridgeport pitcher, and Heffernan, a promising recruit, are the trio.

Crane Beats Briton in Tennis Title Play

LONDON, May 1.—Joshua Crane, Jr., of Boston, won an easy victory today over C. Agar, in the third round of the British amateur court tennis championship now in progress at Queens' Club. The score was 6—3, 6—1, 6—4.

Robertson Declines Offer.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Lawson Robertson, trainer of the Irish-American Athletic Club, has declined an offer to train the athletes of Holland for the next Olympiad.

U. S. Tennis Star Won.

LONDON, April 30.—W. Kinsella, the American professional, beat E. Johnson in a court tennis match three sets to two.

Herreshoff Craft the First of Cup Candidates Ready for Tryout

By HARRY C. THOMAS.

"Charlie" Adams 2d and Robert W. Emmons, 2d, are down at Bristol, R. I., today getting everything in readiness for the first trial trip Saturday of the new Yankee cup candidates, Resolute. The weather for the past few days has been very bad, but both of these Boston men and Nat Herreshoff have had the crew busy getting the rigging into shape and the sails fitted.

It will be a tryout if it don't rain. Of course, these men wouldn't take any chances having the sails get a good wetting on the very first sending, but otherwise any kind of weather will not be barred and the more it blows, the better Adams, Emmons and the others will like it.

And for this reason. The Resolute has been touted as a light weather boat. The builders say "spirited" and the two Boston men who are to manage the New York Yacht Club's boat want to prove the boat is good in heavy weather and hope it will blow a gale.

Rush work is the order for the next two days down at the big Bristol plant getting the Resolute ready for the tryout.

MAY GO OUTSIDE.

The boat will probably be taken down into Narragansett Bay and over around Prudence Island. If the day is favorable, the Resolute may go outside for a real tryout.

The Reliance was given an inside course in the morning and then went outside for a good tuning up. Adams is prepared to go the limit and from now out the crew will be kept on the jump.

It will be principally a test of rig. The rig used Saturday will be scrutinized from every angle. The Resolute will use the shorter spars.

The mast has been placed in the forward step. It is believed that Adams and Emmons intend to use the after step in the real racing.

The short rig the boat had Saturday is similar to that used last season by the New York "flyers" and Emmons, who handled Harry Payne Whitney's fifty-footer knows about all there is to know about this sort of rig.

OWNERS WILL WATCH.

The work of the Resolute under this sail will be carefully noted and the tender Cape Cod will go along with some of the members of the New York syndicate aboard to observe what happens.

The riggers were kept hard at work today in a drizzling rain, but Herreshoff, Mr. Adams, with Captain Christiansen, were on the job nearly all day. This means that Herreshoff is determined to have a trial Saturday regardless of weather conditions.

Changing from the short to the long rig will give a corresponding shift of about three feet and a corresponding length forward to the bowsprit. This is one of the innovations that the Resolute has and will be watched with considerable interest by yachtsmen throughout the country.

Star Sprinters for Beach Oval May 23

Nat Butler, manager of the Revere Beach cycle track, will start his regular Saturday night cycle racing on May 23. Butler is to have Walter Rutt, the world's champion motor pace rider, appear at the track against Al Grenda in a match of mile and half-mile heats, pitting the winner against either Frank Kramer or Jackie Clarke. Rutt, who came to this country early in the Spring, is due to sail for home Junte 17, which means that he will do comparatively little riding on this side in view of his continental engagements, for which he is already under contract.

Name and Delay Add New Air of Mystery to Cochran Cup Racer

The launching of the cup candidate that is building over at the George Lawley yard at Neponset for Alexander S. Cochran of New York has been delayed. It was to have been Saturday but now comes the announcement that no date can be given for the launching.

At the same time Mr. Cochran from New York denies that the name of the boat is Vanitie. In other words this particular boat seems to be very much up in the air as to name and a launching, but from its lines is very much of a racing boat.

It is from the designs of William Gardner of New York, who has let the Q, R and the New York fifty footers pass by, and given a design that has no resembling features at either but an end cut and designed to fit the new rules. It will be a larger boat than the Resolute but not so large as the Defiance.

It is too bad that the launching has been delayed, for the quicker these three boats get into the water and tuned up, the better trials will result. However, conditions at the Lawley yard make it imperative that the launching be delayed until the middle of May, which is pretty late.

The guard that has been thrown around the Lawley yard for the past few days is not the doing entirely of the Lawley Company.

It is at the imperative orders of the owner, Mr. Cochran, who has not only issued that order but has issued a similar one regarding his big steam-yacht that the Lawley Company will build.

This, of course, has the earmarks of the Herreshoff Company at Bristol, who always believed in extreme secrecy. The Lawley Company, however, today deny that they are at the bottom of it and put it strictly up to the owner for whom they are building the boat. It is like getting through the custom house with contraband goods to get in touch with anyone over at the Neponset yard that dares say "How do you do?"

HARVARD Baseball Notes

THE UNBROKEN HOME STAND victories of the Cubans now are at seven, which is the longest winning streak by the Virginia Leaguers since the season began. Soon after the first inning started off, it's mighty hard to tell as to whether Cincinnati will have succeeded in getting a man across the rubber.

THE ELONGATED GENTLEMAN from his south land the Cincinnati Reds is at his best when he is pitching every fifth day. Only the seven half seasons that he served with the Cincinnati field platform, which was a dirt, leaky field, would undoubtedly have been carried that much.

DOC SEXTON'S PUPILS HAVE BEEN hitting the ball fairly well in some of the games they have played, but were all that they could find the range yesterday afternoon on the b.b. The hitting in the Reds game is good work, and the ravishers are due for some very interesting sessions at the batting practice during the next few days.

WHITE SOX HITCHCOCK PITCHED A fairly good game against the Southerners, he got away with it, but he has a long way to go before he can be considered classy. Hitchcock has all the curves, ordinarily would make a good pitcher, but he has not as yet learned the art of making them break right over the plate. He is entirely too careless in his curves and is continually getting them too low or too high. The Virginian has been on the road quite a while and has not yet learned to be a man of his leagues around the one of the game.

THE HARVARD PITCHER SHOWED A tendency to feel in the box that will make similar havoc later on in the season if he doesn't reason. He invariably got behind batters but to him only so he is to make a start there to find. In fact he was in the box more than one batter on Soldiers Field yesterday afternoon before he was able to get over the plate. He showed the stuff that he has.

CAPTAIN, HE HAD A VERY BAD HABIT of taking the return from the catcher in his stride, and so was never ready. He pulled it running, when the batting attack had assumed very large proportions. Captain Clarke is a good pitcher, however, and will undoubtedly be a Harvard Table battler, with the score light, if performance would count.

HUSS AYRES SHOWS ALL THE CLASS at the bat in the box that he formerly displayed at first, while Jack is filling in admirably over around the box. They used to declare that Ayres was a detested hitter, but he has changed that and is playing with Jack Lapp and Bobby Shantz, the fielding wonders who have the edge on the league leaders.

AYRES MADE ONE PLAY YESTERDAY in the sixth inning that had both on it. He ran in, through the batter, dove over on the first base line, fielded a bunt and got his man at first with a speed and grace that a professional might envy.

HARVARD EIGHT FINISHES WELL IN LONG TEST

The Harvard varsity crews are beginning to get used to the new order of things and are picking up rapidly and showing that the recent changes made will ultimately work out well.

Of the two varsities, crew B seems to be the more advanced.

The varsity is rather unsteady which indicates that the men are not yet accustomed to one another. The shell still checks considerably and emphasis is now being laid on the bounce up after the finish. Of late the men have been very lax in this, so bad, indeed, that they are showing no semblance of ever having learned it.

The workout yesterday was very long. The two crews were coached by Coach Wray from the launch. There was a slight improvement over yesterday's practice, especially in the finish. As yet the swing is missing, that is, only once in a while is it noticeable.

The seconds had a little brush with the freshmen for about fifty strokes, in which the seconds won by a few feet. The seconds have regained the form which they displayed against the Navy second. There will be a race between the varsities this afternoon for a short distance, mostly to get up speed.

The Harvard crew management has decided to hold the annual Spring class crew races on Wednesday, May 8. On that afternoon crews picked from the sophomore, junior and senior classes will race over a one and seven-eighths mile course on the basin. The crew winning this race will row a class crew from Yale, chosen in a similar manner on Saturday, May 16. All of the men who row on the winning crew will be allowed to wear their class numerals.

LAST CHANCE FOR BRAVES TO MEET GIANTS

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

The baseball cards that were dealt two days ago for the second game of the series between the Braves and Giants still lay untouched on the table, but it is expected that they will be picked up and the hands played out this afternoon.

Rain, wet grounds, cold weather, mist and the few other things handed up to the Boston baseball public caused the postponement of the games so hastily last Wednesday and Thursday and they will have to be played later in the season.

Today is the last day McGraw's men will be here on this trip as they leave for home tonight to open a series on the Polo Grounds tomorrow with the Brooklyns.

The Phillies will arrive here tomorrow for the first time this year. For a team that was supposed to be shot to pieces by the "Feds," Dooin's brigade has been doing remarkably well, it being right up among the leaders. It is evident that this team must be reckoned with, at least for the present.

It is possible, though hardly likely, that McGraw will put Matheweon in to pitch today in an effort to grab off the final game. On the Braves side the pitcher will probably be Tyler or Perdue. Either ought to be physically fit as both have had quite a long layoff. Players, however, are complaining that a layoff at this season of the year does more harm than good as they need the exercise to keep in condition. Later in the Summer months conditions will be different.

At all events today's game will be for blood. The braves are in no gentle mood after their series of reverses. If they ever start hitting the ball—Good Night! But when will they start?

Madame Daubrais suddenly stooped and picked up a baby rattle still warm with the touch of tiny fingers.

Remi Is Abducted

MORETTI opened the window softly and stepped hastily in. No one was there, and spying the cradle he tiptoed across the room and lifted the baby out into his arms. Such a dear, funny baby, showing the pink, toothless gums from ear to ear as he smiled cherubically into Moretti's dark face.

But Moretti was taking no chances, and he placed his big, dirty hand over the wide open mouth. Babies were funny things—the next moment he might be yelling for his mother. Then he climbed carefully out of the window, jumped to the ground and was off. In a few minutes his long legs had taken him far out of sight of the house and entirely out of the neighborhood. However, he kept on walking until he came to an open space of ground railed in by a short iron fence. Inside there were plenty of tall trees behind which a man could easily hide and secure protection. This seemed to be a good place for carrying out his plans.

Placing the baby on the ground close to the fence railing, he climbed over into the space beyond and took up his station behind one of the trees so that he could watch developments.

THE DISCOVERY.

In the meantime Marie, the maid, who had remained away from the nursery for a longer period of time than she had intended, at last hurried back with a bottle of milk heated to exactly the right temperature for the little baby. She hastened over to the cradle and drew back the silken covers with a smile. But there was no baby! She pulled down the covers all the way, sudden fright for the moment turning her faint and dizzy. Then she smiled in relief and sudden comprehension, laughing at her own foolishness. The baby was with his mother! She might have known that nothing could happen to him. Then with a few deft touches Marie quickly put the room in order, forgetting for a moment about her recent fright, until, as she suddenly remembered, a worried look again came over her face.

"Madame Daubrais is generally so particular about little Remi," she said half aloud. "It isn't natural for her to keep him with her so long after the time when he should have his nourishment. I'll take the bottle down to the drawing room; perhaps she has forgotten all about it."

Madame Daubrais was conversing gaily with her brother-in-law when Marie came hastily into the room. She looked up in surprise at the girl's entrance.

"The bottle for the baby," said Marie, apologetically. "I thought ——" And then the words died on her as she saw that Remi was not with his mother.

"The baby is in the nursery, Marie," said Lucile quietly, dismissing her with a glance. And then, at the girl's evident distress, she said curiously: "What made you think he was here?"

"Oh, but he isn't in the nursery, madame; I thought he was with you. He is gone, gone!" And poor Marie burst into tears, the bottle slipping unheeded from her fingers.

"Gone!" said the mother unbelievingly. "Stop crying, you foolish girl. There must be some mistake." And she flew out of the room, followed by Robert Daubrais and the sobbing maid.

"Of course there is some mistake," said Daubrais, with a great show of conviction. "Common sense would show that it would be impossible for the baby to simply disappear."

But there were no two ways about it; the baby was certainly gone. Frantically the mother tore the covers from the little cradle. Remi was gone, the child she had set her heart on, her little son, with his strong pink limbs and his adorable baby smile. O, she couldn't believe it! Over in the other crib, little Arthur was lying asleep. Lucile, with a faint hope, rushed over and drew the covers down, but only the colorless face of the sick child lying against the pillows met her eager eyes. Arthur was dear to her, yes; but Remi had meant so much more in another way. She had never entirely trusted Robert Daubrais, hard as she had tried, and little reason as she had to feel as she did. And Remi had meant a barrier of strength between her and the outside interference of her brother-in-law in the management of the big estate.

"Call the servants up, Marie," said Mme. Daubrais. "We must question them. Surely they will know something. It seems incredible that the child should disappear without a single clue to his whereabouts."

"My dear Lucile," said Robert Daubrais, remonstratingly. "Don't let this thing excite you so terribly. We'll find the little fellow. Why, I myself will do everything possible to bring him back to you." And for once Robert Daubrais' ingratiating sympathy fell on deaf ears. Lucile Daubrais was past sympathy of any kind. She was so entirely absorbed in her grief and the horror that had come upon her was so sudden that she did not realize that Daubrais had even spoken.

THE SEARCH.

And then Marie came back, followed by the servants. Each and every one said the same thing. No one had come to the house, of that they were all positive. Nor had any one been able to leave. The bell had not even rung since M. Daubrais had entered some time ago. Not even one of the tradespeople had been there with a delivery —there wasn't a single clue of any kind to the mystery. The baby had completely disappeared, and as if the earth had opened and swallowed him up, there did not seem a chance of his recovery.

There was silence in the room as every one realized the gravity of the situation. Alma Daubrais, standing by the empty cradle, suddenly stooped and picked up a baby rattle, still warm with the touch of baby fingers. The tears swelled to her eyes suddenly and fell unheeded down her white cheeks, dropping slowly on the useless toy. Robert Daubrais, looking at her sorrowfully, saw the gleam of his eyes, chuckled to himself and thought again what a fool she was. Decidedly he was master of the situation.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

MY COUSIN has wrote me a letter, sed Ma to Pa last nite, & she wants us to cum out to Minnapolis & visit them for a week or so.

You mean the cousin that was here a month or so last summer? sed Pa.

Yes, sed Ma, my Cousin Olga. She & her husband want us to be sure & cum out there for a week if we can.

Well, sed Pa, can you beat that? If it wasent for the fack that it wud cost three or four hundred bills to go thare, sed Pa, I wud be tempted to talk you & little Bobbie & call thare bluff. They wud be bubbling over with mirth & joy to see us, sed Pa. They wud have a band at the deepo, & all that. Nothing wud be too good for us, I don't think, sed Pa.

I think it was perfectly dear of her to ask us, sed Ma.

I can't see why, sed Pa, wen she knew perfectly well that I wud never be abel to get away from my business long enough to go clear out into Minsota, unless I shud git rich & retire. There is a lot of peopul in this world, sed Pa, that can invite peopul to thare houss & mean it less than anything else they ever sed. & usually, Pa sed, they are the peopul that cum to your house & stop out a invitashun. Jest dropping in, they call it. & after they jest drop in & see how much moar beam like it is than a hotel, they stick around until seven thare own lowle sense of shame cums to the front & they move out. & jest as they are moving out they say, Oh, you must be sure & call on us any time you happen to be in Copenhagen, Denmark, ware we are going to move.

I hoap you doant think that my Cousin Olga isent sincser in this invitashun, sed Ma. She rites me that they have the loveliest home out there near Lake Harriet & a perfect jewel of a Swede girl for a servant. I supoza that you think that is all made up.

I doant doubt they have a Swede girl for a servant if they live anywhere neer Minneapolis, sed Pa, but wife, dear, sed Pa, what in the wurld is the use of our talking about a trip to Minneapolis? Bobbie can't leave his skool & you can't leave yure woman clubs & I can't leave my bizness.

If we cud go, sed Ma, I am sure we cud have a awful good time.

I ain't eeven so sure of that, sed Pa. I reemember one tipe wen I was a guy young bachelor, feefteen I had seven met you, I entertained a feller that had went to skool with me wen we was boys. I showed him all over Chicago & spent nearly all the munny I had put in the bank to save the coast.

On the occasion of official banquets in Gwalior, India, a most ingenious American electrical device of silver is used for passing around the after-dinner coffee, cordial and cigars. This is in the form of a miniature locomotive and train of cars, which, operated from an electric battery and running over a diminutive track laid along the table, is so constructed that it automatically stops before each guest.

Stunning Styles from Paris

Fully Described By OLIVETTE

AFTERNOON frocks of white chiffon taffeta are sponsored by Paris. The one we show you today in the extreme left is worn by Mlle. Darmody, one of the prettiest of the younger actresses.

The bodice is a simono, with long-fitted sleeves fastened at the wrist by four olives of the taffeta. The neck has a coquille collar standing in a full-ruff at the back and extending down in two revers crossed over a wee vest of white tulle.

The draped girdle is of white taffeta, with a huge butterfly bow at the back. In front it is trimmed by two palmetto leaves in bright green.

The skirt has an apron tunic slightly gathered at the waist and finished by a long shaped flounce cut in V in front. The lower part is one piece, slightly lifted in drapery at the front.

Charmeuse is one of those perennially popular materials that flourish from season to season and from year to year. In the next gown we illustrate the greatest charm is the softness of fold in which the wheat colored charmeuse drapes itself. The pepium bodice is sleeveless and gathered full over the shoulder. Gold lace forms a straight collar and follows the V-shaped decolletage. A bead rose of blended rose and green and iridescent yellow holds the fullness at the waist.

A short tunic falls in slightly gathered fullness from the waist, and a rose trims the hem of this little "limp-shade."

The skirt is draped in a swirling movement that crosses at the left under a third rose, and is rounded at the bottom to show the gold colored silk stockings.

Picture No. 3 shows an evening gown of azalea colored satin—but the foundations are lost in the wealth of trimming.

The robe itself is a simple affair, prettily drawn up at the front, with a centre slit and a long pointed train. Over this slips a wonderful tunic of gold and tubular beads in violet and iridescent colored trimming with just a suggestion of the foundation color of satin. This tunic has a suggestion of the popular cutaway in front. A fringe of these beads sketches a bolero effect at the bodice—and this is held up at the shoulder by a broad strap of gold net set over a drapery of white net that forms the oddly draped angel sleeve and outlines the neck. Rhinestone bracelets confine these sleeves at the elbow.

A high fringe of ostrich feathers in white and tete de negre edges the decolletage in front and edges the tunic under a fringe of crystal and rhinestone beads.

The notable feature in Spring tailor-mades is the diversity in the length of coats. From Paris comes the verdict: Coats are either distinctly long or distinctly short. The model illustrated by this picture on the extreme right is of the latter sort. It is an afternoon costume for Summer wear, and it is developed in our old friend, linque.

The coat has a flaring, waist-length front and a swallowtail back. Stitched bands extend up the front and lift to form a rolling collar, which is lined with blue linen dotted in white. This linen faces the front of the coat and lines the turned back cuffs. An olive of blue crystal fastens the front of the coat. Blue and white crystal and agate buttons trim the cuffs and the extension of the stitched band trimming on the coat.

The skirt opens in front and is rather scant at the knees and decidedly full at the bottom. It is made in two parts, the front section overlapping the back in the form of a stitched tab. Under this the material falls at the back to give plenty of walking room. There is a short slit on either side of this fullness, and a crystal and agate button with the coloring reversed is used to fasten this.

OLIVETTE.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE CALLS YOU HER FAVORITE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am deeply in love with a young lady. I thought she loved me, until two weeks ago, when she gave another boy some candy she made. When I asked her about it she confessed she gave this other boy the candy, but swore she loved me best. Then she sent me a box of home-made candy with a note in which she called me her favorite. I understand she gives candy to a lot of boys. Do you think she loves me? BILL.

SHE gave you candy, too, and since you have no right to monopolize her time and efforts, you can't complain.

My criticism of her is based on the ground that she gives candy to you, or to any other boy. She should be the recipient of such favors, not the donor.

THERE IS NO SUCH LAW

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Is there a law in the United States that can compel a wife to stay in the house from morning till night unless her husband takes her out?

A HEART PESTERED WIFE.

THANK heaven, there is no such law, but there are laws providing punishment for all men who treat their wives with cruelty, indifference and neglect. Tell him of these laws and don't be afraid.

BOTH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty and am keeping company with a very pretty girl who is the only child of a widow. Upon remarking the uncommon whiteness of her hands the other day, she said that she attributed it to the fact that her mother never lets her do housework, even cleaning her shoes for her, and taking them off for her on muddy days.

Do you think a girl who would ask her mother to do these things for her, is naturally selfish, or does it in this case just prove a spoiled only child? ENGAGED.

SHE is spoiled, which means that she is selfish. The happiness of the man who marries such a girl is almost uncertain.

"MISS" BY ALL MEANS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I work in a shop with a number of older ladies and we had an argument over what we should call them. By their first name or "Miss," as I am a good deal younger than they.

C. A. T.

IT would be disrespectful under the circumstances to call them anything but "Miss" Smith or "Miss" Jones.

If friendship warrants a more intimate mode of address It is a pleasing sign to call an older woman "Miss Jane or "Miss" Mary.

THAT IS NOT HER PLACE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a young lady and would like very much to know if my love is returned.

She has gone out with me quite often, but has never spoken of love, but acts as though she might love me. F. R.

NATURALLY, she hasn't spoken of love. It would be folly in her to do so before she has had a declaration from you. Suppose you speak first.

The Way of Girls

WHEN a young man walking on the street with a girl changes at every corner so that he has the outside of the walk, she thinks, "What a brave protector he will be to the fortunate girl who gets him!"

Every generation makes it several years younger in a daughter's age when her parents move from the front to the back seat.

At the age of sixteen a girl never likes or dislikes; she adores or despises.

That which young girls regard as candy kids their elders know are lemon drops, but it is a waste of effort to attempt to enlighten them.

At the sight of a young man of means and good manners, a large and luxuriant crop of hopes springs up in every girl's heart.

To a young girl's eyes the hammock swinging empty under the trees on the first Cold, is fully as sad a sight as crape on the door.

Be patient while removing the toilet water, cold cream, face powder, rouge and manicure implements from daughter's dressing table in order to find it in a few years. If she forms as most women fare, she will be married, and the toilet articles on her bureau will consist of one comb with half the teeth out.

It often happens that the daughter who can jump a high board fence and do other athletic feats falls in love with the young man who wears rubbers when there is a dew.

The day after a girl is engaged she goes around the house and makes mental inventory of the gimcracks which she will take with her when she goes.

Fathers should take off their hats to the modern girl. Some years ago when a girl married her wedding clothes cost so much it took her father ten years to recover from the debt. The modern girl earns the money to buy her own clothes, and, in addition, buys many luxuries for her parents all through the days of her independent girlhood.

FOR UNSIGHTLY COMPLEXIONS USE RESINOL

Pimples and blackheads disappear, unsightly complexions become clean, clear and velvety, and hair health and beauty are promoted by the regular use of Resinol Soap and an occasional application of Resinol Ointment. These soothing, healing preparations do their work easily, quickly and at little cost, when even the most expensive cosmetics and complicated beauty treatments fail. Physicians have prescribed Resinol for thirty years, and every druggist sells Resinol Soap (25c.) and Resinol Ointment (50c. and $1.00). Avoid "imitations" or "substitutes" which are sometimes offered. They are usually of little value and may even be positively harmful. FORBES TALKS OF MINE WAR IN COLORADO

By B. C. FORBES, Business Editor.

Workmen have been importuning me to discuss the Colorado trouble, the most lamentable domestic tragedy of recent years.

I have refrained, for several reasons, the chief being that the facts are hopelessly beclouded by conflicting statements.

However, to remain longer silent could seem to lend justification to instinuations of cowardice.

It will be necessary for treat of principles rather than reported—and contradicted—incidents.

With this foreword, let me, with a solemn sense of my responsibility and full regard to the odium I may incur, tackle an unpleasant but unavoidable duty. I voice, of course, only my own sentiments.

* * *

Freedom is the birthright of civilized man.

* * *

You cherish freedom, do you not? You regard it as above price. You would fight for it, for it, if need be, were it assailed.

* * *

The rising tide of democracy is a manifestation of freedom's growth. It is this tide that has swept away the thrones of China and of Portugal. It has shaken autocracy in moribund China, that has crushed the British House of Lords, is carrying Home Rule for Ireland to victory, that has cast the Turkish yoke off a wide territory, and that is raising the status of the "masses" in every nation on earth.

Yes, we all love freedom. We worship it.

Has not the social and political uprising against the tyranny of trusts and monopolies in this country been an assertion of this craving for liberty? Was it not because these juggernauts threatened to render us helpless that we rose up against them. Did not our blood boil at their arrogance? Was it not because we felt they were fastening a halter about our necks that we rebelled and demanded that they be tamed?

* * *

We fought and are fighting monopolies because monopoly and liberty are most times incompatible.

* * *

Do you agree with me so far?

* * *

"Swat Rockefeller!"

"Go for the ——!"

"Wire it him good!"

"Shoot him up, Forbes!"

That has been the tenor of the advice offered me by my workmen friends.

* * *

Well, I'm sorry I cannot obey their behests. The stand taken by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., both in his evidence at Washington and in his formal statements, is, to my mind, not open to unreserved, indiscriminate condemnation. (Please note the exact language I use and do not twist it in pouncing upon me for writing as I now do.)

* * *

The crux of the whole principle at issue, as I see it, lies in this sentence, about which most of the controversy has raged:

We do not question the right of any workmen to freely associate themselves in unions for the furtherance of their common and legitimate interests, but we do assert the equal right of an individual to work independently of a union if he so elects.

* * *

There is nothing repugnant in that clear-cut declaration. Is there? I can conceive such a sentiment being expressed by Abraham Lincoln, the Liberator. And because it happens to come from the lips of the richest young man in the world, is for one reason to pelt him with mud and deafen him with imprecations simply because to do so would be "popular."

* * *

I admit, however, that I am astonished Mr. Rockefeller is an uncompromising foe of trade unions. The Rockefellers were among the earliest and foremost exponent of combination in this country. They carried organization and consolidation to a pitch never paralleled in the world's history—to a pitch which led the Supreme Court of the United States to condemn them scathingly. They used no kid gloves in bringing independents to terms. They annihilated rivals right and left, using sometimes poisoned bullets, commercially speaking.

* * *

With Rockefeller's opposition to unions I have, therefore, little sympathy.

But Rockefeller's likes or dislikes do not constitute the principle at stake. That principle is:

Shall free men, citizens of a Republic born of antipathy to tyranny, be allowed to work for whom they please, or must they submit to coercion and intimidation?

* * *

I want my freedom. I want it so fervently, I believe in freedom so ardently, that I refuse with abhorrence to deny it to any law-abiding fellow mortal.

* * *

If, therefore, any brother cannot see eye to eye with me on the advantages of joining a union, but prefers to remain what he calls "independent," I may consider it my duty to argue with him, to persuade him, to cajole him; but I can claim no right to molest him, to rob him of his freedom of choice, to subject him to lawless maltreatment. I want to win him over by fair means. But I must not shoot him if he refers to get according to his own ideas rather than mine.

* * *

He may be mistaken, grandly mistaken. Yet freedom is HIS birthright no less than mine.

Nordica's Husband Unnerved by Worry

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong this afternoon, the upturn which began in the first hour having continued over midday. Early in the afternoon gains in New York included American Sugar common 2¾, Canadian Pacific 1¾, Southern Pacific ⅜, Missouri Pacific 1¼, Reading 1⅜, Lehigh Valley 1¾, New Haven 1¼, American Telephone 1⅛, American Can 1¼, Steel 1⅛, Amalgamated ⅜, American Smelting 1¼, Northern Pacific 1¾, Union Pacific 2¾ and New York Central 1⅜.

The advance in Union Pacific was attributed to the refusal of a New York judge to enjoin the road's directors from distributing the proposed extra dividend among the common stockholders.

In Boston advances included Boston & Albany 1¾, New Haven 1¼, United Fruit ⅜, American Telephone 1⅛, Tamarack 1⅛, Butte & Superior 1⅛, Calumet & Arizona 1¼, Granby 3, North Butte ½, and Osceola ¼. Greene-Cananea was down a point.

Both the New York and Boston lists averaged the highest around noontime. Markets were quite active and the improvement in sentiment was marked.

EARLY TREND WAS UNCERTAIN.

The early price trend of stocks in New York was uncertain, they opening as a rule with gains and becoming irregular. After a brief period of hesitation the tone improved, and during the rest of the forenoon the buoyancy was quite pronounced.

"Traxing in Missouri Pacific," said a dispatch, "was the principal feature of the session of 2½, for a gain of 1¾, with sales totaling 8,000 shares. Within ten minutes, however, it receded to ½. Nearly all the important railroads and industrials were higher in the opening, but at the end of thirty minutes most of them had lost part of their advance.

"Union Pacific was unuer pressure, losing a point, soon on the closing sales were called from London, where there was no session or the exchange, owing to the May 4 holiday. Pressure was also directed against New Haven. There was fair demand for steading, which opened higher, but receded within fifteen minutes. Steel common began with a small gain, but at the end of thirty minutes was selling at a net decline."

MEXICAN SITUATION IGNORED.

The Mexican situation seemed to be largely, if not wholly, ignored, and much more attention was given the Eastern rate case. Many operators were of the opinion that this is of more market importance than anything else. The strength which some railroads showed before afternoon was attributed to stronger expectation that roads will be allowed to increase rates. It is understood that the Wilson administration is in a pacatory mood in general, owing to criticism of its foreign policy.

It was cabled from Europe that in London and on the Continent there is more market optimism. Paris and Berlin are favorably impressed by reports that the Austrian Emperor is getting better of a serious illness, and that the United States and Mexico will not go to war. It was reported from London that tension over the Ulster question has lessened. All foreigners have been heavy sellers of American securities in their home and the New York market, this fostered hopes on this side that pressure from this source is over for awhile at least.

MORE "POP" RUMORS.

The advance of Union Pacific was a feature of the second hour in New York, while Canadian Pacific was another strong rail. Missouri Pacific benefitted by the belief that its financial needs will be cared for without being as heavily taxed as had been feared. Much of the buying of this issue yesterday and today was supposed to be by important interests. The rumor that George J. Gould has sold large holdings to Rockefeller interests was heard again, and it was also claimed that recent selling pressure upon this stock had been applied to force small holders to liquidate for the benefit of the powerful interests which are seeking control of the road.

ROADS DEFAULT ON BONDS.

The New York Stock Exchange has been notified that St. Louis & San Francisco will not pay May 1 coupon due today on its general lien 5 per cent. fifteen-twenty-year bonds. Actual default is expected to precipitate foreclosure proceedings.

As the May 1 coupon on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company collateral trust 4 per cent. bonds also will not be paid today, that stock exchange has ruled that all transactions in the security will hereafter be "flat," that is, without interest. Default has been expected. The bonds are secured by practically all of the capital stock of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

It is reported that mills in Rhode Island and Connecticut which employ more than 20,000 men will shut down owing to trade depression, begin a rigid curtailment of production.

For March the entire Pennsylvania Railroad system reports gross business of $28,558,555, a decrease of $153,872, and net returns of $4,549,140, an increase of $351,887. Lines East show losses of $491,177 in gross and of $268,750 in net. Gross for nine months totals $251,456,215, down $4,737,504, and net $68,682,842, down $2,295,769.

It is understood in financial circles that certain minority Lake Shore stockholders will fight the plan for consolidation with the New York Central road on the ground that to exchange five shares of new consolidated New York Central stock for one share of Lake Shore would not be equitable.

The London copper warrants market had an easy tone this morning spot and future being off 5s. each. No further change marked the close.

According to fortnightly statistics the foreign visible copper supply in England, France and afloat thereto on May 1 was 20,363 tons, an increase of 1,497 tons.

It is expected that the Equitable Life Assurance Society will appeal to the higher New York State court the denial of its plea for an injunction to prevent the Union Pacific from paying to common stockholders an extra dividend totalling about $50,000,000. The Equitable wanted an injunction because it is such a large holder of the road's preferred stock.

During April the Boston Elevated's gross income increased about 6 per cent.

Save Man's Life in Fire at Braintree

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

It is understood that the police of Boston have been instructed to strictly enforce the law against the use of the muffler cutout in the thickly settled sections of the city. Their instructions go even further than the muffler cutout, they having been called upon to bring about a still more specific recognition of the non-cutout law. Many arrests for both of these violations have occurred within the past month, and it behooves motorists to be more circumspect than ever.

A NEW COAT OF PAINT

For your place should accompany clean-up week, which starts May 1st in Boston. To find the place to buy your paint look in the "Want Ad" columns of the Sunday AMERICAN.

FIRST OF ALL

Before making another move toward securing a Furnished Room or a Boarding place, learn of the variety announced in Boston American Want Ad pages.

The Boston Herald says:

"Think of the Huge Circulation of the Hearst Publications!"

NET PAID CIRCULATION of Boston Sunday American	352,937
NET PAID CIRCULATION of Boston Sunday Herald	59,031
Sunday American's NET PAID circulation OVER the Sunday Herald	293,906
Sunday Herald's LOSS each Sunday for six months ending March, 1914	29,035

The Herald on April 30, in an inconspicuous way, said that its circulation figures, published in October last, were gross, and not net paid. But the Herald even now (May 1) does not give the net paid for that period! Of the 88,065 that the Sunday Herald claimed for the six months ending September, 1913, how much was net paid? Why were gross figures given to the U. S. government? Net paid figures only are required by law. Gross is not. Why not tell the truth now? The American will publish the Herald's own figures, very conspicuously, if the Herald will furnish them. This request, made to the Herald on April 30, is renewed. Why is the Herald silent? Honesty is the only policy that succeeds in circulation figures are published to be accepted by advertisers—to obtain money under false pretenses.

Meanwhile, as the Herald wisely remarks:

"Think of the Huge Circulation of the Hearst Publications!"

Woman's Great National Demonstration Tomorrow

Honor It, Applaud It, Share in It if You can. WOMEN ARE REAL FIGHTERS—No "Mediation" for Them.

Tomorrow, May 2, the women of this country will demonstrate once more, and more emphatically than ever before, the fact THAT THEY ARE IN EARNEST, and that they have enlisted in the Suffrage War to stay.

In this city, and in every city and town of the United States —from Honolulu to New York, from the Canadian boundary to Florida—meetings will be held, parades will be organized, and resolutions will be adopted CALLING UPON CONGRESS TO GIVE THE VOTE TO THE WOMEN OF THE UNITED STATES AND ADMIT NATIONALLY THEIR RIGHT TO SHARE IN GOVERNMENT.

The women, in their persistency, their plucky fighting, their refusing to temporize, set an excellent example just now TO THE MEN of the United States.

Wherever women have been permitted to vote they have made conditions better, have proved their earnestness, sincerity and intelligence.

Only a combination of stupidity, vanity, and out-of-date prejudice will oppose woman's demand for the ballot.

Every man fortunate enough to have a mother, or sister, or a daughter worthy of honor, must share in the effort to get justice for women—or admit himself an egotist or something worse.

Tomorrow is the day set aside for the great national demonstration by the women of the country.

Do not let the trouble with Mexico or any other problem or trouble keep you from honoring the women and sympathizing with them earnestly in this demand for justice.

The little war which interests us is petty in comparison with the war that women have been waging for justice through so many years.

We shall settle the Mexican problem, pacify the Mexican brigands, and annex the Mexican territory with one-tenth of the effort that women have made in the struggle for justice.

Honor them for the courage with which they have fought, and honor them especially in their great demonstration of tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be held fifteen thousand meetings in forty-six States. That means organization, determination, AND IT MEANS SUCCESS.

Honor to the women who have made the fight, and congratulations to the nation that is soon to increase the sum of intelligence expressed at the polls by adding the influence of good women everywhere.

The Proposed Concession on Panama Tolls Is False, Sinister or Superfluous

Dismayed by the evident opposition of the country to the surrender of the Panama Canal to the transcontinental railways, the representatives of the Administration upon the Senate Committee propose what they call a compromise.

This concession is the addition to the repeal bill of a paragraph declaring that in repealing the free tolls law the United States waives no right it possesses under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty or otherwise. The committee has agreed upon the bill thus amended and reported it by a bare majority.

This declaration is either superfluous, false or offered with sinister motives purposely obscured.

A very considerable portion of the press and public, and not a few Senators, hold that we have no right under the treaty to exempt American coastwise ships from tolls. This reading of the treaty is disputed by such eminent authorities as Senators Root and Lodge, and even the President has withdrawn his original plea that exemption of our coastwise ships would be a dishonorable violation of our treaty obligations. Nevertheless, that position is still held by many Senators and from their point of view the Administration's amendment would be superfluous.

On the other hand, if the right exists under the treaty to exempt our coastwise ships from toll, and we refuse to so exempt them, we are surrendering that right despite any explanatory and exculpatory amendments we may attach to the act of surrender. We declare at once for a principle, and its violation. We are strong for the rights and dignity of the United States in the abstract, but in the concrete case we say to Great Britain and the transcontinental railroads: "Take all you want. You have no right to it, but we are too feeble to resist robbery." The passage of the repeal bill, accompanied by the boastful proclamation that we do so without surrendering a single right, would leave the United States in the melancholy predicament of Byron's distressed lady who

"Whispering, 'I will ne'er consent'—consented."

We would urge upon Senators the wisdom of proceeding cautiously with this proposed concession, whether it be a false or a superfluous statement, or both.

Today the fact that years ago the Senate voted down the Bard amendment to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty which explicitly declared the right to exempt American coastwise ships is being cited in the Senate as indicating that no such right exists. The fact is, as many Senators, including Mr. Lodge, are ready to testify, that the amendment was voted down because it was thought to be superfluous—that without it the treaty protected the United States in the right to exempt its coastwise vessels. Nevertheless, the fact of the defeat of the amendment is now cited to prove absolutely the contrary doctrine.

If the Senate votes to repeal the exemption law, at the same time declaring that in so doing it surrenders no right existing under the treaty, we shall find the Senate a few years from now contending that the phrase—now put forth by the Administration as a "concession"—merely meant that no right was surrendered because no right existed. It is this possibility of construction that leads us to regard Senator Simmons' proposed compromise as sinister in its purpose.

THE RISING SUN OF SUFFRAGE

The Two Sisters

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

CHAPTER LVII.

HADLEY was right. Caryl Marvin reached home ten minutes before Julia. The younger girl saw a swift look of relief cross her sister's face as she entered their room.

"Oh, Caryl, dear, I'm glad you're here!" she cried. "I was pretty sure you would be."

"Oh, yes," Caryl rejoined cheerfully. "I'm here all right. Why should I be anywhere else? Where else is there to go?"

"To be sure," agreed Julia. "Yet as you were out last night, and I missed you so much, I was foolish enough to let myself think how forlorn it would be for me if you were not in this evening."

"You are very silly," Caryl said affectionately. Crossing the room, she kissed her sister on the cheek. "I wish you wouldn't worry so, Judy, but would be just as happy, too."

Julia gazed at her sister longingly, then, putting her arms about her, drew her to her in a sudden passion of tenderness.

"Oh, little sister, little sister!" she exclaimed, "how can I help being silly about you? I don't mean to annoy you, but I do love you, and when you kiss me as you did then it seems as if you loved me as I love you—and it makes me so glad!"

Caryl patted her sister's cheek reassuringly. "Why, dear Judy," she cooed, "of course, I love you just as much as you love me, and I want you to believe that I do. I know I am horrid and cross sometimes, but I'm going to try to be nicer, truly."

"And you're going to be careful, too, darling, aren't you?" asked Julia anxiously.

Caryl pulled herself away with a little laugh. "Well, from the present looks of things, I won't have much chance to be anything but careful," she remarked. "Mr. Somerdyke—the man that met me, you remember, once at Delaine's studio and took me to lunch and for an auto ride—has gone or is going to South America; so the only man I can go anywhere with has a sister who goes along with us."

"Will you tell me about those people, Caryl?" Julia asked timidly.

"Of course I will," Caryl agreed, "but not until after we have come back from dinner. I want to have a good long talk with you then."

The "good long talk" left Julia Marvin more at peace and almost happy. To be sure, Caryl had professed her confidences with the request that Julia say nothing to anybody—"even to Mr. Delaine," she had added with some acerbity — about the fact that Somerdyke was in love with Dora Redfield.

"She has taken a fancy to me," Caryl said, "and but for that she might not have told me as much as she did of Somerdyke's attentions to her. Naturally she did not say that they were engaged, or even would be, but after she had told me of what a nice fellow Harry was—and lots of other things in which I did not really agree with her, although she did not suspect that—she ended by saying: 'I know you will not repeat to anybody what I have told you.' And I wouldn't, Judy, to any one but you, but I know you are safe."

"Thank you, dear, Julia responded. "You know I won't betray any of your confidences."

Thus assured, Caryl continued her improvisations, telling her sister that on the day on which she had lunched with Somerdyke he had asked "the two Redfields" to join them. A sudden liking and friendship had sprung up between the brother and sister and Caryl.

"I think," Caryl said after a while, glancing shyly at her sister, "that John Redfield likes me very much already. I have not told you, Judy, every time I have met him and Dora, for I enjoyed meeting them so much, and I was afraid you might disapprove—and—and—I like him, and perhaps some time when I see him alone, he may tell me that he cares for me."

Julia laid a tender hand on her sister's shoulder. "If that time comes, dear," she said, "you will tell me—won't you?"

Caryl nodded. "All right," she promised, "and until then don't ask me any questions—will you?"

A sudden sense of uneasiness assailed Julia. "But you don't know anything about this man's position or character, do you, dear?" she objected. "I wish you did."

Caryl tossed her head in swift anger. "Oh, Judy!" she exclaimed, "Nobody can please you! It is not enough that I assure you that these are nice people? Here," as if struck by an urgent thought, "there's something that I insist on your doing! I have made you promise not to tell the facts to Delaine—but write him a line, requesting him to answer you at once, and ask him if he knows of a man by the name of John Redfield, and whether he considers him respectable!"

"Oh, Caryl!" protested Julia. "I can't do that!"

"Well, I'll write it for you then!" the younger girl declared, carried out of herself by wrathful excitement. Hurrying to the table she seized a pen and began to write. In a moment she tossed a sheet of paper over to her sister.

"There," she exclaimed, "can't you copy that and sign your name to it?"

Julia read the unsteady words slowly. "My dear Mr. Delaine," they ran, "may I ask you to tell me if you know of a man named John Redfield, a friend of Mr. Somerdyke's, and if you consider him a trustworthy, respectable person?"

"Now," commanded Caryl, "copy that and send it, and then, perhaps, when you get that man's answer, you'll believe your own sister!"

Her manner, her look of outraged innocence, had a powerful effect upon the older girl.

"Oh, Caryl," she begged in an outburst of penitence and of magnanimity, the tears rushing to her eyes—"forgive me! I see now that everything's all right! There's no need of my writing this letter, darling. Forgive me! I do trust you!"

"I think it's about time that you did," said Caryl coldly. "But if you care so much for Delaine that you have more faith in him than in me —just write to him at once. If you don't, please try to treat me a little more fairly in the future."

Are We Forgetting Thomas Paine?

It Is Time the World Awakened to the Merits of One Who Did More to Achieve American Independence Than Any Other Man.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

THOMAS PAINE (1737-1809):

"The world is my country; to do good is my religion."

The man who named our country.

The man first to advocate independence for our country.

The man who did more to achieve this independence than any other man, giving his pen, tongue, sword and pocketbook to the cause.

The man who in the darkest hour of the Revolution wrote the "Crisis," commencing with the words, "These are the times that try men's souls." (General Washington ordered this mighty work to be read to the army once a week.)

The man who was joint author of the Declaration of Independence with Jefferson.

The man who borrowed ten million dollars from Louis XVI. to feed and clothe the American army.

The man who established the Bank of North America in order to supply the army.

Napoleon said in toasting him at a banquet, "Every city in the world should erect a gold statue to you."

The author of the "Rights of Man," acknowledged to be the greatest work ever written for political freedom. This masterpiece gave free speech and a free press to England and America.

The man known as "The Great Commoner of Mankind," the "Founder of the Republic of the World."

The man first to urge the making of our Constitution.

The man first to suggest the Federal Union of the States and to bring it about.

The man first to propose the Louisiana Purchase.

The man first to demand justice for women.

The man first to plead for dumb animals.

The man first to advocate international arbitration.

The man first to propose old age pensions.

The man first to propose "The land for the people" (single tax).

The man first to propose the care for the children of the poor at public expense.

The man who invented and built the first iron bridge.

For a century the world has forgotten its debt to Thomas Paine.

Indeed, that name has been branded by bigots and fanatics with all imaginable obloquy.

Thomas Paine was one of the founders of our great United States of America. We would undoubtedly be under British rule today but for the wise and wonderful efforts of Thomas Paine.

In January, 1776, he wrote and published a plea for American independence. Previous to this he had made a strong argument urging separation from the mother country.

No one had been daring enough to think of such a move before.

All the colonists had rebelled against the unjust taxes and impositions, but Paine was the bold rebel who dared say Liberty.

After his pamphlet, "Common Sense," was published the people were electrified. No pamphlet ever written sold in such vast numbers, nor did any ever before or since produce such marvelous results. Paine donated all the financial proceeds of the pamphlet to the cause of liberty (as he did with all of his other works.) Washington, now converted, wrote to his friends in praise of "Common Sense," asserting that Paine's words were "sound doctrine and unanswerable reasoning."

Jefferson, John Adams, Franklin, Madison, all the great statesmen of the time, wrote gratefully of Paine's "flaming arguments."

In July, six months after "Common Sense" had awakened the people, the Declaration of Independence, embracing the chief arguments of Paine's great pamphlet and much of its actual wording, was signed by the committee of patriots in Philadelphia.

The great Revolution commenced at once. The oppressed colonists took up arms at a great disadvantage, by reason of the lack of food, clothes, money and munitions of war, but inspired by the forceful message of "Common Sense," they fought bravely and well.

When Winter set in, however, the ill-clad, poorly nourished little army had been greatly reduced in numbers by desertions from its ranks. Many of the soldiers were shoeless and left bloody footprints on the snow-covered line of march. All were but half-hearted at this time, and many utterly discouraged. Washington wrote most apprehensively concerning the situation to the Congress.

Paine, in the meantime (himself a soldier with General Greene's army on the retreat from Fort Lee, N. J., to Newark) realizing the necessity of at once instilling renewed hope and courage in the soldiers if the cause of liberty were to be saved, wrote by campfire at night the first number of his soul-stirring "Crisis," commencing with the words:

"These are the times that try men's souls. The Summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country, but he who stands it now deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap we esteem too lightly; it is dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange, indeed, if so celestial an article as freedom should not be highly rated."

Washington ordered the "Crisis" read aloud to every regiment of the army. The effect was magical. Hope was renewed in every breast. Deserters returned to the ranks; men who had half-heartedly withheld from joining the patriot army took courage from Paine's thrilling words and shouldered muskets with the best. The great cause, tottering on the brink of dissolution, was saved. Paine's "Crisis" did it.

Following the first number of the "Crisis" came others—thirteen in all—the last commencing with the words: "The times that tried men's souls are over."

Paine was not only a great author and statesman, but he was distinctly a pioneer, an originator: an inventor and creator. To him we are indebted for many of the world's greatest ideas and reforms.

It was Paine who first proposed the abolition of negro slavery; Paine was the first to suggest arbitration and international peace; Paine originally proposed old age pensions. These are a few of the other great ideas he fathered. He first suggested international copyright; first suggested the education of children of the poor at public expense; first suggested a great republic of all the nations of the world; first proposed "The land for the people"; first suggested "the religion of humanity"; first proposed and first wrote the words "United States of America"; first suggested protection for dumb animals; first suggested justice to women; first proposed the purchase of the Louisiana territory; first suggested the Federal Union of States.

It is time the world awakened to his merits. With that end in view the Thomas Paine National Historical Association was organized in New York some years ago. Through the efforts of this association, Thomas Paine is at last coming into his own. The association intends that Thomas Paine shall occupy that niche in the world's Temple of Fame where he properly belongs, and to that end it bends its every endeavor. The association has established its home at New Rochelle, N. Y., in the house that Paine built.

The Portrait

By CONSTANCE CLARKE

SHE stands knee deep in the heather bloom,
With blue eyes lost in a bluer sky,
A golden blur in a dusky room,
While the sad-eyed hours go by.

She stands in the shadow of yesterday,
In the rosy heather fronds knee deep,
While the hours go hurrying on their way,
The hours that she could not keep.

Time stayed his hurrying feet awhile
To smooth her hair with his finger tips,
To leave in her wide blue eyes a smile,
To breathe on her curving lips.

She stands knee deep in the heather bloom,
With blue eyes lost in a bluer sky,
A golden blur in a dusky room,
While the sad-eyed hours go by.
